Plane Debris Seen By German Vessel As Hope Continues

U.S. Air Force Widens Search
For Missing Navy Privateer

STOCKHOLM (AP)—A German steamship reported today that it sighted last Monday what appeared to be airplane wreckage in the Baltic Sea off Oland Island. This could be a new clue as to the fate of a United States Navy plane missing in the Baltic region since last Saturday night.

The ship—the Juno—had no radio and made the report upon arrival at the port of Oernskoldsvik, in northern Sweden. The semi-official Swedish news agency, T.T., said the first officer of the Juno described the debris as an airplane cabin.

Still hopeful of rescuing the 10 crew members aboard the missing plane, the U.S. Air Force widened its five-day search.

Officers abandoned hope that they had sighted a life raft near the Danish Island of Bornholm Wednesday. Air force officers however, refused to admit discouragement.

"Survivors of sea crashes have been known to live for weeks in the emergency equipment which this plane carried," one spokesman said.

The missing four-engine plane, he explained, carried enough rubber life rafts for all its 10 men. Each raft had provisions for 10 to 12 days and rubber exposure suits to protect survivors from freezing.

With as much rain as has fallen in the Baltic this week, drinking water would be no problem, the spokesman said.

FROM FISHING SHIPS

Objects sighted Wednesday in the sea near Bornholm must have been only debris from fishing ships, the searchers decided.

An American pilot had seen what he thought was a yellow rubber life raft in an oil slick. In the same area a Danish minesweeper later recovered a yellow box, used by fishermen for storing fish.

The oil patch, said air force officers, could have been garbage or other refuse from passing ships.

The aerial sweeps today were to extend nearly as far east as the Latvian coast, where the Russians said they exchanged shots last Saturday with an American plane. The air force said the unnamed navy privateer was the only plane that possibly could have been in the area at the time.

Weather Forecast

Cloudy with showers today, clearing this evening. Increasing cloudiness overnight with rain Friday. Little change in temperature. Light winds becoming southwest 15 m.p.h. this afternoon; light winds tonight increasing to southeast 20 m.p.h. Friday morning. Low tonight, 40; high Friday, 54.

THANKS VOICED

"We thank the dockers on the other side of the ocean who loaded the ship, the seamen who brought it here, the generous people who paid for the supplies, and the government of these people which has such a policy," he said.

"These arms are going to be given to soldiers of a free country who will use them to protect this liberty."

He said the first shipment, enough to equip an artillery regiment and a howitzer group, is only the beginning.

"I hope that we will soon see as many as four ships at a time being unloaded in this port," he said.

The American Importer arrived at 4:55 a.m. under the command of Capt. Angus MacKinnon with the first arms load of a program designed to build the French army into a first-class defence force.

Labor Unions Oppose TV In Private Hands

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today opposed the development of television in Canada by private interests.

The new medium may become more important than radio, the T.L.C. said, and therefore the policy established now "is of prime concern to all the people of Canada."

The labor group, representing more than 3,000 local unions in Canada, presented a brief on a wide range of cultural subjects to the Royal Commission on the Arts, Letters and Sciences.

The brief said that the Congress "would prefer to see television developed in Canada as a national publicly-owned utility providing as a public service the best in programs that telecasting techniques can create."

The T.L.C. supported the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation as presently constituted and stated its opposition to a network of private stations.

Beef Prices Up As Canada Doubles Cattle Exports

OTTAWA (BUP)—Toronto emerged today with a new distinction, as the city where the cost of living is rising fastest. Edmonton, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Montreal were next in order, with Saint John, N.B., Saskatoon and Halifax trailing.

According to figures published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the cost of living in Toronto rose 6.1 points in the past year, while in Montreal it climbed 4 points.

The bureau said the increase in living costs in Montreal during the year was less than the jump in the all-Canada index. But at the same time, the cost of living in Montreal was the highest of any city in comparison with prewar days.

The statistics bureau said it was not fair to compare the index of one city directly with another, since varying factors entered into the compilation. Conditions in Saint John, for instance, could not be compared directly with living costs in Saskatoon.

Officials said, however, it was possible to compare the rate of increase between one city and another. It was in that comparison that Toronto was able today to claim an edge over Montreal.

Sharp boosts in the cost of foods and rents were mainly responsible for sending regional cost of living indexes higher in each of the eight cities of which D.B.S. kept accounts.

The statistics bureau reported that during the month of February this year, the cost of living index for all Canada rose 2.1 points on the basis of August, 1939, equalling 100, from 160.3 at the beginning of the month to 162.4 at March 1.

In the same period, the cost of living in Toronto jumped 8.1 points. In Winnipeg it rose 2.5 points and in Montreal 2.4 points.

PROBE STARTS ON MORALS OF HOLLYWOOD

Judge Jackson Says
He Plans To Get
Over-All Picture

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—The man who will investigate film colony morals for a Congressional committee said today he opposed federal censorship of movies.

But Judge Stephen S. Jackson added he definitely believed "harmful exploitation" by Hollywood of individuals should be curbed.

Jackson arrived to make his investigation for the Senate interstate commerce committee. Committee Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) seeks federal licensing of the industry and hired Jackson for an on-the-spot check preliminary to opening hearings in Washington May 15.

"When Senator Johnson asked me to act in this matter, I explained to him that I opposed censorship on the federal level," the former Johnston office executive said.

"But I do feel that steps should be taken to work out a solution to this problem of harmful exploitation."

Jackson emphasized that he was not interested in how actors, actresses, producers or writers spent their leisure hours away from movie sound stages.

"He said, however, he wants to find out about the mass behavior of residents of film town."

"I will not elicit or look for any information as far as it concerns a person individually. I am after an over-all picture of the current situation and constructive suggestions on how to deal with such problems as may exist," he said.

Lie May Visit Moscow Over China Issue

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (CP)—A trip to Moscow by Secretary-General Trygve Lie may be his next move in attempts to settle the United Nations deadlock, brought on by the China impasse.

This was disclosed Wednesday when Lie told reporters he has not eliminated a journey to Moscow on his planned trip to Europe starting April 22.

Pointing out the possibility he may go to the Russian capital is the fact he will talk along to Europe the top Russian national in the U.N. Secretariat.

He is Konstantin E. Zinchenko, a former top assistant of V. M. Molotov, Russian deputy prime minister. Zinchenko now is U.N. assistant secretary-general in charge of Security Council affairs.

The trip will be the first Zinchenko has made abroad with Lie.

Lie said if he goes to Moscow he will talk over the "general situation" in the U.N.—indicating the discussion will centre on the Chinese representation issue which has plunged the world organization into its gravest crisis.

No Soviet Soldiers Seen Despite Rumor

HONGKONG (AP)—Russians are streaming into Shanghai, 88 foreigners just arrived from Communist China said today. "You don't see them so much as you feel them." That was the comment of one of the arrivals, the first large group to get out of Shanghai since the Reds set their ban on train travel by foreigners.

Best estimate of these foreigners is that about 5,000 Russians are in Shanghai—mostly civilian technicians and political workers. Not one saw a Russian in military uniform.

This was in contrast to many reports that have filtered into Hongkong. These within recent weeks have had Russian soldiers patrolling Shanghai streets, manning anti-aircraft defences and doing other active military duties.

BEST HOUSING

The arrivals said the Russians are being given the best housing accommodations in Shanghai—a situation arousing much resentment. This confirmed reports prevalent here for some time.

The 88 were among 154 foreigners jam-packed on the little coastal vessel Heinrich Jensen, built to accommodate 36 passengers. The ship took them aboard at Tientsin, north China port where they had gone by rail from Shanghai.

Sixty-eight other passengers were evacuees from north China brought out by the International Refugee Organization. They left immediately by air for Palestine.

Home-Made Bomb Blasts At Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—A dynamite bomb blasted a Harvard dormitory early today, slightly injuring one student.

The bomb exploded on the window sill of a first-floor suite in Thayer Hall.

Robert W. Dobbie, 21, Allentown, Pa., was injured when glass fragments showered on his bed.

The blast ripped the window panes and frame from the casing and narrowly missed three other students studying five yards away.

Harvard police and local authorities said a lead pipe, a dynamite cap and traces of black powder found near the scene led them to believe it was a dynamite bomb.

Students in bathrobes and nightclothes gathered from surrounding dormitories as a black billow of smoke lifted from the scene. Even as they collected, a fire cracker exploded in Lowell House, six blocks away.

Yard police said they were lured from the scene by a telephone call from an unidentified source who complained that the gates to Thayer Hall were locked.

Harvard officials theorized the explosion was a prank.

Family Dies Brutally In Burning Home

WASHINGTON, W.Va. (AP)—A couple and their 10-year-old daughter were found brutally beaten and stabbed to death in their burning home today.

Firemen stumbled into the gory setting when they answered an alarm that the house of William A. Blanks was on fire. The couple's son, 18-year-old William Blanks, Jr., was picked up by police two hours later and rushed to a hospital, where he was admitted immediately to surgery with undetermined wounds.

The inside of the box-like house was a shambles. The body of the girl was sprawled face up, nightgown above her knees, or her smoldering bed in the front upstairs room.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (CP)—Blonde Dagmar Kacerovska, 23-year-old Czech employee of the United States Information Service here, tonight was sentenced to 15 years hard labor for high treason.

Miss Kacerovska was one of two Czechs employed by the U.S.I.S. who went on trial today on charges of spying and spreading hostile propaganda. She pleaded partly guilty.

The other defendants, Lubos Eistner, who pleaded innocent, changed his plea to "partly guilty" during the trial and was sentenced to 18 years as an "enemy of the republic."

Both were employed as translators.

U.S. WINNING WITHOUT LOSING ANY OF FREEDOM

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (UP)—Defence Secretary Louis Johnson expressed confidence today that the United States will win the cold war struggle with Russia without sacrificing any democratic freedoms.

In an address at a University of Virginia founder's day celebration, Johnson pledged the nation will be kept militarily strong enough to insure "ultimate success."

He said that "peace today can be achieved only through strength."

But the Secretary said no effort will be made to match Russia "man for man, gun for gun, tank for tank, or plane for plane." That would be playing Russia's game and might result in wrecking the U.S. economy, he said.

"We shall win by proving ourselves qualitatively stronger, in ingenuity, in spirit and in muscle, than any who may contemplate to challenge us," Johnson said.

Mission Smashed By Quebec Mob

Christian Brethren's Little Place At Shawinigan Stoned, But No Arrests

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP)—An angry mob, said to have ranged in size at various times from 200 to 2,000, Wednesday night smashed the meeting place of a Christian Brethren group.

Twenty-seven persons huddled in fear in an upstairs flat while the mob, made up of men, women and children, hurled stones, empty bottles, chunks of ice and even eggs.

The plate glass windows of the building, which also houses a store, were smashed. After an hour-long demonstration, a part of the crowd entered the store, used as a chapel, and wrecked furniture, including the pulpit.

Eyewitnesses and police sources told newspapermen today that the disturbances began when a member of the crowd outside the building entered the meeting place and began to ridicule the sect.

He was promptly thrown out and that is believed to have touched off the demonstration.

AT PEAK
Police Chief Longval said there were as many as 2,000 in the crowd at one time.

An evangelistic sect, the Christian Brethren are said to have 20 small congregations scattered throughout Quebec province. They have no ordained ministers but are led by "evangelists"—laymen who are called to the work. They are paid no salary.

Benoit Mongrain, a wheelchair paralytic who owns the building, said today that about 20 Brethren were in the store chapel when the stoning began. Several were women.

Mongrain said he is not a member of the sect. He allowed the group to take shelter in his home above the store. There, he said, the Brethren group and Mongrain, his wife and five children were held virtual prisoners for about two hours during the demonstration.

POLICE ESCORT

A detachment of 10 Shawinigan Falls police escorted the Brethren from the Mongrain flat. The police are said to have made no arrests although they were reported to have been on the scene early in the outbreak.

(Other dispatches quoted Chief Longval as saying today there was little prospect of arresting any of the mob that attacked the little meeting place.)

Paul Boeda, leader of the Shawinigan group, placed a telephone call during the demonstration to Dr. Arthur C. Hill of Sherbrooke, chairman of the executive committee of the Christian Brethren Church of Quebec.

Boeda could not be reached today and Dr. Hill left for Shawinigan Falls by way of Montreal. Shawinigan Falls is about 18 miles north of Three Rivers, about 100 miles east of Montreal.

Guards Face Jury For Man's Death In Mental Home

QUEBEC CITY (BUP)—Conrad Asselin, 31, and Emmanuel Audet, 34, two guards at the St. Michel Archang Mental Hospital, were committed for trial today on charges of manslaughter in the death of a patient earlier this month.

Judge Achille Pettigrew said the evidence against the two was "formidable," and they should appear for trial at the fall session of the criminal assizes.

Another guard, Jean Paul Blouin, testified he watched two other guards beat and kick to death Arthur Pare, a 48-year-old patient who had spent 17 years in the hospital.

Blouin said the guards attacked Pare for 10 minutes in one of the halls of the institution, then carried him to a table and renewed the attack.

He gave no reason for the beating.

24-Hour Ice At Arena Seems Certain In Test

No Clue Found To Plane Missing In Baltic Region

Report Wreckage Seen Near Island Yields No Results Despite Wide Hunt

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (UP)—Searchers feared tonight that a missing U.S. Navy Privateer plane, carrying 10 men, crashed and sank in the Baltic Sea without a trace last Saturday after being fired on by Soviet fighters.

A German ship's report today that it had sighted airplane wreckage Monday 90 miles northeast of Bornholm Island proved to be just another false alarm, search officials reported after rescue planes had thoroughly criss-crossed the area for six hours.

U.S. Air Force Capt. Michael F. Ognisty of New York, deputy commander of search operations, said at Wiesbaden, Germany, that the searchers decided the area was a dumping ground for surface vessels and contained no debris identifiable as remains of an aircraft.

The search planes assigned to cover the area have been recalled to Copenhagen, Ognisty said. But the general search went on.

Obtain Needed Thickness By 10.30 P.M. Deadline

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

One-quarter inch of ice was measured on the floor of the Memorial Arena at 9 this morning with 13½ hours to go before deadline in the now famous 24-hour ice test.

Charles T. Hamilton, consulting engineer, who is conducting the test, is standing guard throughout the period. He stayed on the job all night.

Joe Dutkowski, arena manager, has been barred from the engine-room of the rink and Mr. Hamilton is in charge of arena workmen for the duration of the test.

The engineer was confident this morning he would have the promised three-quarters inch of ice on the floor within the 24-hour period. The contract with Canadian Ice Machine Company calls for renewal within 48 hours. Some months ago Mr. Hamilton said equipment could handle the job in 24 and Mr. Dutkowski reportedly said it could not be done.

FLOOR TROUBLE?
While the ice test was the forefront today rumors regarding the floor are expected to break out into an arena story to end all arena stories May 27, when the consulting engineer and the contractors take over for final inspection.

Mr. Hamilton's views on the floor, operation of the arena and kindred subjects are known to have been contained in a report to the arena committee.

"It's up to them if they want to make it public," he said.

When queried on the matter, genial Aid. Frank G. Mulliner, chairman of the arena committee, said: "I'm afraid this is one of the few times you will have to say F.G.M. made no comment."

The undercover chatter regarding heaving at the northeast corner, cracks in the concrete, holes in the ceiling and bats in the belfry have reached mountainous proportions. In some considered opinions, the question of the slight rise noted in the floor at the northeast corner several days ago, will be adjusted through atmospheric conditions.

The ice has been changed only once before and at that time it was hauled away in trucks. Mr. Hamilton made use of the ice pits in the test because, he said, he was not supplied enough men.

"It all went through the pits, but they are not in good shape," he said. "Spray pipes have broken down in three of them."

"My agreement with the arena commission was that they were to supply me with all the necessary men for the test. When I went to Mr. Dutkowski I was given five men. That is all."

When queried on the mountain of rumors regarding the temperature in the arena for the Symphony From Concert last night, Mr. Hamilton said it stood at 45 degrees. At intermission he said he laid a special thermometer on the concrete at each end of the building and it registered 44 degrees.

"We did not get onto the rink floor until 1 in the morning," he said. "I had use of the refrigeration room but couldn't pull the temperature down with people sitting out there."

"We were running hot since through the pipes last night to keep the place warm. We did not reverse until 10.30 last night."

The three-quarters of an inch of ice promised in the test is recognized as the proper thickness for hockey, according to Mr. Hamilton who said extra thickness only meant more costly operation of the refrigeration plant.

Three hundred gallons of milk were ordered before Mr. Hamilton arrived and this morning the milk was being put on the ice. The milk gives whiteness for hockey.

Truckers Meet Employers On New Proposal

Company and union officials concerned in the strike at Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros. met today for the first time since 71 company workmen walked off the job 15 days ago.

The meeting was called by the B.C. Labor Relations Board anxious to see an early settlement of the strike which has killed more than 500 building trade workmen.

J. V. Johnson and D. E. Smith, joint managers of the firm, submitted at today's meeting what they termed a new offer.

It provided the company would do away with the classification of laborer and would put all men presently employed in this category up with swamper and mixing plant helpers, to be paid at $1.08 an hour. Laborers presently receive 98 cents an hour.

In addition, the company offered to pay scale men, pad men, and cement dumpers $1.12 an hour; flat and dump truck and loadermobile drivers, $1.17 an hour; trailer truck drivers, and mixermobile drivers, $1.27 an hour, and crane, shovel and bulldozer operators, $1.39 an hour.

Warehousemen, employed on a weekly basis, were offered an increase of $2.20 per week under the company's terms.

"Considering other concessions enjoyed by the employees, the firm feels it has made a fair offer," Mr. Johnson said following the meeting.

Robert Smeal, union spokesman, said today's company offer was substantially the same as was made by the company just before the strike. He said union members at that time had voted to reject it. He indicated, however, the union would consider the offer.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN

NOW THAT SPRING has really come, bringing with it thoughts of tonics, as well as other more agreeable things, we decided to take a dose, not of the old-fashioned sulphur-and-molasses variety, but of one of the best there is—the tonic of laughter. So we hied us to the movie, "Cheaper By The Dozen."

And came out feeling much better for having chortled long and loudly at the hilarious, family-raising foibles of Clifton Webb in the role of Professor Frank Gilbreth, and his baker's dozen of a brood, while, at the same time, marveling at the magical way in which the wife and mother, as played by Myrna Loy, managed such a household.

BASED ON LIFE

WHAT MADE THE PICTURE all the more intriguing to me is that it is based on a true life story, taken from a book of the same name, written by two of the Gilbreth brood. And the movie script evidently adhered very closely to the actual happenings in this happy family, with its up-bringing geared to the theories of a somewhat eccentric father whose profession was that of a consultant engineer in management efficiency.

And it was his integration of those efficiency ideas into the management of his own domestic machine that created the hilarious situations. But beneath the humor there was a sound lesson to be learned. For it was parental tenderness and understanding that lubricated the assorted collection of human little cogs into efficient and harmonious working in the round of family relations, thus producing a fine and united family unit.

STILL GOING STRONG

BY ONE OF THESE ODD, but inexplicable coincidences, I happened to pick up a copy of the March 30 issue of the Washington (D.C.) Post on my return from the theatre. And in glancing over its pages my eye was caught by a picture of the mother whom I had just seen portrayed by Myrna Loy.

To my amazement I read that Dr. Lillian G. Gilbreth had been in the U.S. capital to speak before the Washington Chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management in her role of consultant engineer in efficiency, thus doing in real life today what she had been shown doing in the film—following in the professional footsteps of her husband.

FOLLOWING HIS FOOTSTEPS

THE NEWS ITEM goes on: "Mrs. Gilbreth said she got into the field of time and efficiency studies by being a psychologist who married a consultant engineer in efficiency, the late Dr. Frank Gilbreth."

As simple an error of design as placing the oven at the bottom of the kitchen stove rather than at the top has cost the American housewife tremendous energy, she said.

MOTHER AND CAREERIST

AND, CONTINUES the Post article, "The mother in the best-selling book, 'Cheaper by the Dozen,' Mrs. Gilbreth has combined housekeeping and the raising of 12 children with a career as a pioneer consultant engineer in efficiency. Nine academic degrees—five of them doctorates—were sandwiched in between."

All of which, in my estimation, conclusively refutes the claim—of one school of thought—that a woman cannot combine motherhood and home-making with a business, professional or political career.

A fine turn-out of over 3,000 people paid tribute Wednesday night to Han Gruber and the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, and to their guest artist, tall, personable basso, Kenneth Spencer.

The coolness and vastness of the Memorial Arena chilled neither musicians nor audience.

For seldom has a concert provided more of a feeling of personal contact and friendship than this one. Part of this was due to the familiarly cheerful and romantic nature of the program, played so capably by an orchestra now well on the way to an important future in Canadian music.

WINNING PERSONALITY
The winning personality of Kenneth Spencer contributed largely to the atmosphere, as he sang with smiling ease through two groups and several encores.

In this, his second visit to the city, Mr. Spencer renewed the previous impression of a splendid range—his deep, vibrant tones are supplemented by a beautiful baritone coloration in the upper register. But he has gone far ahead, to become a true artist in song. His tone production is now finely controlled, uniform and true. He succeeds in capturing to the full, the mood of every selection and conveying it richly to his listeners.

So profoundly affecting was the spirit he imbued into his unaccompanied singing of the Crucifixion spiritual, "Were You There," that it seemed a spell of immobility had descended on the huge audience. In his program numbers he received able support from the orchestra and from Grace Timp at the piano.

A fiery Slavonic dance revealed the virtuosity the orchestra has achieved in recent months. In the Wagner selection Mr. Gruber exploited the color and resources at his command with eminently satisfying results, drawing subtle shadings and vivid contrasts from all choirs.

Sheerly delightful, however, was the fragile effect of Mozart's "Serenade for Strings," played as an encore. Quality of tone and phrasing were alike, exquisite.

Attorney John J. Caruso said the relatives are convinced the youth is not responsible for Curley's death.

Canadian Fliers Meet Sailors in New York Aboard Maggy

Before leaving for Halifax Wednesday to wind up a tour of operation in the Caribbean and her first visit to New York, the Canadian aircraft carrier Magnificent provided some navy hospitality to Canadian airmen on leave. In the seamen's mess aboard the warship enjoying a cup of tea and examining souvenirs are, left to right, OS. Doug Cox, Kingston, Ont.; AC. Andre Smith, Montreal; AB. Ray Sheehy, Halifax; LAC. Roger Goudreau, Montreal, and OS. Don McLaughlin, Essex, Ont. Accompanying the Magnificent during the operation were the destroyer Micmac and the frigate Swansea.

Arthritis Work Outlined For Health People

Work of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, in helping many of the 600,000 sufferers in this country was outlined to delegates to the provincial public health institute at the Empress Hotel Wednesday by Miss Mary Peck, secretary of the B.C. division.

For the year ended March 1, 8,201 treatments had been given. Cost was $2.50 per treatment to those who could afford it, no charge to those who could not.

She said the society in B.C. was formed in 1948, and began operating last year with the aid of federal and provincial grants.

MAKING FULL USE
Chief hope today for sufferers was in making full use of facilities now available in this province, said Dr. W. Hurlburt, secretary of the British Columbia medical arthritis committee.

Though optimistic about the fight against the two crippling ailments, Dr. Hurlburt noted cortisone drugs and ACTH were not available in sufficient quantities to meet the demand and were not the complete answer to the problem.

NINTH HIGHEST
Dr. Stewart Murray, senior medical health officer in Vancouver, told the convention premature birth ranks ninth among the causes of death in Canada.

The speaker suggested expectant mothers obtain more information about personal health during pregnancy. He said many women got professional advice only when they were about to have their baby, thus increasing risks of complications.

Miss Ruby Tinkiss, maternal and child health consultant for the National Health Department, emphasized that premature babies were more susceptible to many infections.

Profit Of Imperial Oil Last Year Up $1,100,915

SARNIA, Ont. (CP)—Imperial Oil Ltd., which has been active of the stock exchanges lately and reached a high of $28 a share Wednesday, had net profit in 1949 of $23,932,983, up $1,100,915 from 1948. This was equal to 88.20 cents a share, compared with 84.18 cents.

The report to shareholders by G. L. Stewart, president, states business was at record levels with product sales up approximately 8 per cent. Earnings, however, were not increased to an equivalent because the rate of profit in manufacturing and marketing declined from 93.100ths of a cent a gallon in 1948 to 72.100ths of a cent in 1949.

Earnings from "other income" were reduced chiefly because of loss of dividends resulting from the sales of shares in International Petroleum Company Ltd. and Royalite Oil Company Ltd.

Gross value of sales was $364,739,023, up $20,365,703. Net earnings from manufacturing and marketing were $14,187,298, down $2,685,865.

EARNINGS REINVESTED
Dividends continued at 50 cents a share, so that 38.2 cents a share, or slightly more than 43 per cent of earnings, were reinvested in the business.

Capital expenditure for plant and equipment totaled $34,233,587, down $2,358,350.

Takes Over Office First Week In June
Donald M. Cox, secretary and manager of the Winnipeg Municipal Hospitals, who Tuesday was named assistant commissioner of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, will take up his new appointment the first week in June, it was learned today.

As assistant commissioner of the B.C. hospital insurance scheme, Mr. Cox will work directly under Lloyd F. Detwiler, commissioner, but will be in charge of the hospital side of the scheme.

It will be his job to seek ways and means to help private hospital boards cut down their operating costs so that charges met by the government scheme are reduced.

Makes Appeal For Conservation Of Resources

Importance of conservation of natural resources "for all the needs of all the people for all time" was stressed before the Victoria Natural History Society by D. L. MacMurchie, assistant to the chief of the provincial parks division.

Mr. MacMurchie was presenting a paper on "Resource Use for Recreation" prepared by his senior, E. G. Oldham, at the April meeting of the society in the reading room of the provincial library.

The speaker could not agree with a statement by an industrialist at the 1949 Resources Conference that the only values to be considered in resources development were dollar values.

"We have an enviable record in our ability to extract wealth from forests, mines and fisheries, but B.C.'s record of increasing juvenile delinquency and a three-fold increase in our insanity rate is not so enviable," it was stated.

Human values were greater than dollar values and planned use of resources for recreation was one of the best uses to which they could be put.

Greatest immediate need in combating ill of the people in thickly populated areas was "breathing space," easily accessible.

"If the younger generation of our cities could be provided with open spaces within a quarter or half a mile of their homes where they had a feeling of space and elbow room and their energies could be directed to healthy recreation, we could dispense with police protection for youngsters attending public dances," the paper read.

Engines Challenge Symphony Players

Ice-Making Plant Puts Sound Effects Into Program

By DAVID STOCK

Throbbing compressors Wednesday night provided noisy accompaniment to the Victoria Symphony Orchestra and singer Kenneth Spencer at their concert in the Victoria Memorial Arena.

Throughout the entire concert, attended by more than 3,000, the compressors whirled away. And above the steady drone was a high-note whistle.

Persons seated in the north-west corner of the building received the full effect. Those in the other end were not so conscious of it, perhaps, but the sound was there too.

Several hundred concert-goers seated on the cement floor of the building had other things to worry about. Their feet got cold.

Even before the end of the concert, brine was being dumped through under-surface pipes, bringing the floor temperature down below the freezing point.

Officials of the Symphony Society were angry over both the noise and the low temperature.

Treasurer Sam Clark, ever mindful of financial aspects, declared: "We will have to try and get a reduction."

Arena manager Joe Dutkowski agreed the society had just cause for complaint. He said the compressors' rightfully should have been turned off so the concert could have been enjoyed.

He said the compressors were kept on throughout the concert by Charles Hamilton, consulting engineer for the arena, who had promised to have a coating of ice on the floor thick enough for skating 24 hours after the concert's end.

Mr. Dutkowski was powerless to interfere. Earlier, he had been given instructions by the arena commission to keep out of the compression room while Mr. Hamilton went ahead with his test.

Arena commission chairman

F. N. Cabell, who attended the concert, readily admitted the noise was disquieting.

He thought, however, the noise could be prevented in future by covering the compression room door with soundproofing material.

Hans Gruber, symphony orchestra conductor, was too busy concentrating on the music to notice other noises, he said. He indicated after the concert, however, he was far from satisfied with general acoustical qualities of the building.

Guest soloist Kenneth Spencer, basso, graciously refrained from commenting on the arena noise.

When informed many listeners had complained some of his quietly-sung notes had been "almost drowned out" by noise from compressors, he grimaced, then grinned.

HELPFUL HINTS GIVEN

Many Services Await Visitors To France

(The following is the first of a series of articles on holiday travel in Europe.)

By PETER WHITNEY

PARIS—The tourist is probably better served with guide books, maps and tasteful publicity in France than any other country in Europe. The complete stranger, from far away, can prepare himself a tentative itinerary, make his hotel reservations in advance and have a rough idea of what he is going to see.

France is the paradise of tourists, not least because of its efficient government-supervised regulation of tourist facilities. But unlike some countries which have done this well — NAZI GERMANY for example — neither government regulation nor commercialism is allowed to spoil the individuality of one's reception. Hospitality is definitely one of the things the French do best.

If you have little or no French you should put yourself in the hands of a travel agent. But the more you can participate in the choices yourself, the better.

There are more resources in France for the tourist, probably, than in any other piece of land of the same size in the world, yet the average tourist knows very little of it except PARIS, the BASQUE coast and BRITTANY. If you can go to your travel agent and say: "I am interested in mountain climbing and salmon fishing and I want to go to the Basque country," you will already have made a big creative step and, incidentally, have helped the travel agency to help you.

If you feel that your French is good enough, there is no reason why you should not plan your holiday yourself. In some cases, especially in the "off" season, you may get a 5 per cent reduction in hotel rates which would normally be turned over to the travel agent as a fee. There is no harm in asking for it; don't forget that the French are far less ashamed of seeming thrifty than are ANGLO-SAXONS.

This, parenthetically, is a principle which the visitor to France should engrave in his memory. It applies above all to tips. Don't overdo it. Find out what the appropriate rate is—it will certainly be less than in England—and add a little for the sake of generosity. There is an indefinable air of superiority, which the tourist learns to recognize after his first few weeks, in the way the French porter receives too large a tip. It may earn you merit in Heaven but it certainly does not win respect in France.

MOTORING MAPS

Many resources are open to the tourist who knows some French. First, there are the famous MICHELIN guides, companions to the road maps, which are undoubtedly the most useful motoring maps in the world. These guides are basic documents for the traveler in France and I would advise you to get the guide for Paris at all events and to choose those for the regions you intend to visit from among the brand new regional guides which are coming off the press; BRITTANY, CHATEAUX DE LA LOIRE, VOSGES - ALSACE, JURA, AUVERGNE, SAVOIE, GORGES DU TARN, PROVENCE, DAUPHINE and COTE D'AZUR.

These are booklets of 100 to 200 pages illustrated with line drawings and maps. They cover a considerable area and the towns are alphabetically listed. Since they are so new they may be difficult to get at your book seller but you will certainly be able to obtain them by writing to Anglo-French Publicity Ltd., 25, Villiers Street, London, W.C.2.

RESTAURANT GUIDE

The last basic piece of literature which no knowing French traveler will be without is the handbook "AUBERGES DE FRANCE" of the "CLUB DES SANS-CLUB." The English edition should be easy to get in Britain. It lists the better restaurants of the country as they are found along the highways, and thus is especially useful for the motorist. Incidentally, it supplements the official hotel guide by noting those restaurants which also have rooms.

A word about restaurants. It is difficult to go wrong in France, the art of cooking being so widely esteemed and the standard so much higher than that of the Anglo-Saxon world that the ordinary wayside inn can supply a most satisfying meal. First, be careful not to arrive at tiny farming villages off the beaten track at meal-time taking it for granted that there will be a restaurant. Such places can be a rude shock. A simple-minded village postmistress, with the only telephone in 15 miles, may offer one a tin of sardines and a hard circular loaf of peasant bread.

Secondly, beware of the other end of the scale—the restaurant de luxe. Frenchmen of all classes think so highly of food that they are often willing to pay prices that seem fantastic to an outsider and often the food itself seems unnecessarily rich to the tourist's less educated palate.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich. (AP) — Edsel B. Ford, only son of the founder of the Ford Motor Company, left a total estate of $128,039,503. It was disclosed yesterday in court here. The widow's inheritance amounted to $19,105,887, the accounting showed.

Lie May Visit Moscow Over China Issue

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. (CP)—A trip to Moscow by Secretary-General Trygve Lie may be his next move in attempts to settle the United Nations deadlock brought on by the China impasse. This was disclosed Wednesday when Lie told reporters he has not eliminated a journey to Moscow on his planned trip to Europe starting April 22.

Pointing up the possibility he may go to the Russian capital is the fact he will take along to Europe the top Russian national in the U.N. Secretariat. He is Konstantin E. Zinchenko, a former top assistant of V. M. Molotov, Russian deputy prime minister. Zinchenko now is U.N. assistant secretary-general in charge of Security Council affairs.

The trip will be the first Zinchenko has made abroad with Lie. Lie said if he goes to Moscow he will talk over the "general situation" in the U.N.—indicating the discussion will center on the Chinese representation issue which has plagued the world organization into its gravest crisis.

EDMONTON SECOND IN LINE Living Costs Increasing Faster In Toronto Than The Other Cities

OTTAWA (BUF)—Toronto emerged today with a new distinction, as the city where the cost of living is rising fastest. Edmonton, Winnipeg, Vancouver and Montreal, were next in order, with Saint John, N.B., Saskatoon and Halifax trailing.

According to figures published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the cost of living in Toronto rose 6.1 points in the past year, while in Montreal it climbed 4 points.

The bureau said the increase in living costs in Montreal during the year was less than the jump in the all-Canada index. But at the same time, the cost of living in Montreal was the highest of any city in comparison with prewar days.

The statistics bureau said it was not fair to compare the index of one city directly with another, since varying factors entered into the compilation.

Flying Bixbys Fail To Break Odom Record

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The flying Bixbys completed a 21,000-mile flight around the world today, "disappointed" that they were unable to break the speed record set by the late Bill Odom.

Bob Bixby and his blonde wife, Diana, set their converted Mosquito bomber, Huntress II, down at the San Francisco airport at 3.06 a.m. P.S.T., after a 2,800-mile flight from Midway Island. The flight, which took 11 hours and 16 minutes, was the second longest hop of their trip. They flew at 25,000 feet to take advantage of a 30-mile-an-hour tailwind. Mrs. Bixby was at the controls.

The total time for their round-the-world flight was 11 days, 18 hours and six minutes.

LONG SLEEP

"We're dead tired," they said. "We're going to a hotel and sleep all day. Then we'll come back and work on our plane." "We have no future plans," they said in answer to a question whether they would try again to break Odom's record. At the airport to meet them were Bixby's mother, Mrs. Caroline Bixby, and his wife's father, E. E. Converse. They had been waiting four or five anxious hours for word of the flying couple.

Bomb Blasts At Harvard

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UP)—A dynamite bomb blasted a Harvard dormitory early today, slightly injuring one student.

The bomb exploded on the window sill of a first-floor suite in Thayer Hall. Robert W. Dobbie, 21, Allentown, Pa., was injured when glass fragments showered on his bed.

The blast ripped the window panes and frame from the casing and narrowly missed three other students studying five yards away.

Harvard police and local authorities said a lead pipe, a dynamite cap and traces of black powder found near the scene led them to believe it was a dynamite bomb.

Pressure On Supplies Probably Will Continue Till End Of Year

By NORMAN MACLEOD OTTAWA (BUF)—Canadians today were sending twice as many steaks on the hoof to the United States as they were a year ago and face the prospect of paying more for beef as a result.

Federal government marketing experts, commenting on an almost unprecedented movement of cattle across the border, said it likely would continue high at least until the end of 1950.

They said this would leave less beef for Canadian tables and higher prices for whatever beef became available.

BEEF-HUNGRY?

The officials cited several factors which, they said, might well make all but the most well-heeled Canadians a beef-hungry race before the books close on 1950. The actual number of cattle roaming Canadian ranges or waiting for a one-way trip south was little different from what it was a year ago. There were 8,243,300 at Jan. 1, 1949, and 8,251,000 counted on Jan. 1, 1948, federal statistics showed.

But exports showed a different picture. Canada shipped 50,000 head of cattle to U.S. markets in the first three months of this year, more than twice as many in January, February and March of 1949.

Ottawa's experts, who keep close tabs on the situation although they sometimes are hundreds and even thousands of miles from the ranges, forecast one of two results. They predict either a sizeable shortage of beef for domestic use or a serious depletion of Canadian herds.

HAPPY TO SELL

They said U.S. demand would continue strong and that cattlemen would be happy to fill it. The exchange situation gave the Americans a 10-per-cent premium.

Whatever disadvantage the situation may have held for Canada's beef eaters, farmers were not complaining too much. Trade figures showed that since the United States lifted its embargo against entry of Canadian cattle, Canada's farmers did a $205,000,000 business.

New Microscope For School Classes

NEW YORK (AP)—A new model electron microscope that brings this research tool within the range of high school classes was announced today by the Radio Corporation of America. It will cost $6,000 as against $18,000 for the bigger model. It is about the size of a large table lamp, stands 30 inches high, and is made for bench or desk use.

Labor Unions Oppose TV In Private Hands

OTTAWA (BUF)—The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today opposed the development of television in Canada by private interests.

The new medium may become more important than radio, the T.L.C. said, and therefore the policy established now "is of prime concern to all the people of Canada."

The labor group, representing more than 3,000 local unions in Canada, presented a brief on a wide range of cultural subjects to the Royal Commission on the Arts, Letters and Sciences.

The brief said that the Congress "would prefer to see television developed in Canada as a national publicly-owned utility providing as a public service the best in programs that telecasting techniques can create."

Red Protest Plan Fails As Arms Reach France

CHERBOURG (UP)—France received its first direct U.S. arms shipment today and the government promised that it will be used to protect French liberty.

A Communist call for demonstrators against the arms delivery drew no response as the U.S. freighter American Importer arrived from Brooklyn, N.Y., with 632 tons of military equipment. Unloading began at once.

Defence Minister Rene Pleven said the threat to liberty had been removed by the anti-Communist sentiments of the dock workers themselves. In a brief ceremony he thanked Americans for the arms.

"We thank the dockers on the other side of the ocean who loaded the ship, the seamen who brought it here, the generous people who paid for the supplies, and the government of these people which has such a policy," he said.

"These arms are going to be given to soldiers of a free country who will use them to protect this liberty."

He said the first shipment, enough to equip an artillery regiment and a howitzer group, is only the beginning.

Twentieth Century Dilemma

THE MEN WHO WORK ON ATOMIC problems, no less than the men and women who form the general body of citizens, are deeply troubled about the political and humanitarian aspects of their scientific discoveries. A publication issued by atomic scientists has gathered the opinions of leading men of the laboratories for presentation to the world, and they nearly all tend to agree that something more than mere technical superiority in arms is necessary to ensure peace in the world.

Perhaps typical of many of the beliefs expressed is that of Prof. Albert Einstein, who declares that "the idea of achieving security through national armament is, at the present state of military technique, a disastrous illusion." He calls for a "supra-national judicial and executive body" which would be empowered to make decisions on matters of international security. Other scientists of like mind call for "new and imaginative political action for world unity and peace."

There is not unanimity on the question, however. One school of thought amends such a concept with the suggestion that development of superior weapons, especially in the atomic field, could gain time for those who seek peace, and give additional force to their demand for its achievement. Others, going a little farther, caution that "democracy will not be saved by ideals alone," and champion the building of force formidable enough to deter any potential aggressor. It will be seen, therefore, that in their quest for a solution to the problem that grips the world today, the men of science reflect quite closely the opinions of laymen: We must seek world peace as the ideal, but we must remain strong so as not to tempt those to whom power is the main desire, with peace as a secondary consideration. The conflict, of course, comes when such a double-barreled belief is put into operation, for it may be argued that implementation of the second part, relative to maintaining national strength, is destructive of the hope of achieving the first part, involving the ideal of peace, in that it prompts other nations also to build up their armed strength as a corresponding defensive measure.

At such a point the proposition appears insoluble. Inevitably the mind returns to the idea of friendly negotiation between the conflicting powers in an effort to straighten out their points of contention. But such meetings can only be successful where both parties are of the same desire in regard to peace and differ only in their method of approach. There has been little evidence, and no proof, that such is the case today. Despite occasional protestations of belief in the co-existence of democracy and Communism voiced by supporters of the latter ideology, the basic tenets of the Communist faith appear to make conflict inevitable. Whether that conflict can be kept within the bounds of a non-shooting war depends upon how much totalitarianism will demand at the expense of democracy, which in turn would seem to depend upon how strongly armed democracy remains.

Another Community Advance

FOLLOWING THE DISCUSSIONS which have taken place between departmental experts, the approval accorded by the City Council this week to the mutual aid plan for Greater Victoria fire protection was little more than a formality. The lead given by the city is expected to be followed by the councils of other municipalities. The scheme reflects sound common sense. Under it, authorized persons could call upon fire departments of neighboring municipalities when their own facilities were overtaxed, and the chief receiving the call could use his discretion in answering it.

The argument may be advanced that Victoria, with far more equipment than Oak Bay, Saanich or Esquimalt, is placed in a position in which it may give more aid than it receives. In cases where human life may be at stake, that should cause no great concern. It should be obvious, moreover, that the measure which has received City Council approval marks another advance along the road to the unified service which is bound to come eventually.

One of the more apparent benefits resulting from the plan is the demonstration of the co-operative spirit existing between the different fire departments. That is a frame of mind that is needed to stimulate the Greater Victoria idea. As it increases in strength, the sooner will it be possible to bring into effect a complete unification on terms equitable to all concerned. District pride is no valid obstacle to improvement of service that will be achieved when consolidation is completed.

In the course of several years, this community has seen several instances of different services coalescing under one administration. That is a natural progress of development which can be retarded by suspicion and narrow self-interest, but it is one, nevertheless, which cannot be held back indefinitely. The arrangements made for the fire departments mark one more step forward.

A Delicate Situation

THE DELICATE NATURE OF EAST-West relations gives added danger to the air incident involving an American bomber and Soviet fighter planes that has resulted in a Russian protest and a probe by United States officials. Moscow charges that the American craft was observed flying over Soviet territory, failed to heed instructions to land at a nearby airport, opened fire on fighter planes sent to intercept it, and disappeared over the Latvian coast. In reply, United States Air Force authorities say that a Navy plane is missing in the area mentioned, but that it carried no armament other than a pilot's pistol. The makings of a first rate international row appear to be at hand. The aircraft in question was on a round trip from Wiesbaden to Copenhagen—an apparently innocent enough flight. But Russian officialdom is notoriously suspicious of all planes that fly even near Soviet borders. Experience gained in flying the Berlin airlift would indicate the possibility that Russian fighters "buzzed" the American aircraft, and that an over-exuberant pilot opened fire on it. The hasty Soviet charge that the Americans fired first is a tactic not unknown in relations with the Kremlin. The investigation now under way by the U.S. State Department, it is hoped, will uncover the truth at an early date, and forestall any more serious situation that might threaten to arise.

Urge To Appear 'In The Know' Can Jeopardize State Secrets

By BRUCE BLOSSAT, from Washington

CONGRESSMEN are always complaining that they don't get the truth, or at least all of it, from such important arms of government as the State and Defense departments. But they themselves are partly to blame, because few of them know how to keep a secret. They're undoubtedly right that they don't get the full story.

Of course some of the information they don't learn is too vital to security to be passed around even within the departments. We're not thinking about rigidly classified material.

But lots of other data Congress could wisely lean upon for intelligent lawmaking it never gets. What it does find out about the state of national defence or political and diplomatic conditions abroad is too often not distinguished either for accuracy or clarity.

The departments, to be sure, can't be whitewashed of responsibility for their part in this. Many government officials have a generous contempt for the people's representatives and are predisposed to tell them as little as possible, just on general principles.

The thing is further complicated by the departments' dependence on Congress for money. Department of officials come to Capitol Hill as bargainers, trying to put the best conceivable case for the granting of the funds they seek. Understandably, some inconvenient truths may not get told.

But there's another side to it. Congressmen as a rule are among the poorest guardians of a confidence to be found in Washington. Tell them something confidential and, like as not, it'll find its way into print in record time.

The average congressman fairly bursts with self-importance when he's lugging a big secret around in his brief case. He can hardly wait to flash out a shiny photo-stal fresh from government files and show it to a colleague, a visiting constituent or a reporter.

The information usually is passed on with appropriate warnings not to disclose it. Yet few who relay such data to reporters can have any illusions about where the material will ultimately wind up.

The plain fact is the congressmen want it known that they have important information. It increases their stature, they believe.

Actually, their stature would be a lot greater if they showed more responsibility in preserving confidences. They can't expect to be entrusted with crucial data so long as they spill the contents of their brief cases to every good listener who hits their offices.

There'll be more point to their demand for important facts when they learn to curb their schoolboyish eagerness to command attention.

NEXT GREAT DECISION

MUCH of what went on at the military conference at The Hague, which was held on the first anniversary of the Atlantic Pact, is, of course, secret. But there have been reports inspired without doubt by "experts"—in plain words military commanders and defence officials—who are in the know. These reports raise broad issues and questions of policy.

AMONG the most important of the reports are that (1) the time needed to create a Western European army of modest dimensions is perhaps four to five years; that (2) the cost is of an order which will require an American contribution of about the size of the annual installments of the Marshall Plan; that (3) the question of German military forces will have to be faced; that (4) the Bonn government is now determined to exert pressure on the western powers about the security of Germany; that (5) European allies are asking whether American forces can be kept in Europe after—if and when—the occupation of Germany ends.

ALL these different questions rest on one common assumption—that while war is not likely in the near future, the situation is developing towards a climax—a few years hence—when there will be a showdown: a war, a settlement imposed by the stronger coalition, a settlement negotiated by the two coalitions if the balance of power is such that neither has achieved military superiority. This estimate, which can be deduced from The Hague meeting, appears to agree with the judgment of Mr. Churchill in his important speech of March 28. This speech unfortunately was not well reported in the United States.

NOW among all these questions the most critical are those of the German forces and of German security. When we discuss these questions we must, however, have no doubt in our own minds about America's military policy—namely the determination to have a striking force in being which is a recognizable deterrent against overt military aggression. That almost certainly means an increase in the rate of airplane production—certainly to the Eisenhower level now and perhaps beyond it later on.

The question of German forces is of supreme and critical importance because the future of Germany is the highest stake in the cold war and because the power of Germany—for good or evil—is the greatest factor which has not yet entered into, but will now increasingly enter into, the world balance of power.

THE problem of West German forces is posed by the existence of German forces in the Soviet zone of Germany. Reports differ about the strength of the East German forces but there is little doubt that there is no comparable force in Western Germany. It is obvious, therefore, that the unification of Germany and the end of the occupation cannot take place until there is a Western force sufficient to balance the Eastern and to make sure that the all-German government will have a loyal all-German force to uphold its authority.

It is necessary, therefore, to contemplate the approval of a West German force on a scale sufficient to balance the East German force. This should not be confused with the notion that a German army can be recruited and incorporated in the Atlantic system. There is no ground for thinking that the Germans would agree to that, or that the Russians would permit it if the Germans actually began to rearm for international war.

THE German forces we have to think about are not international but domestic forces—essentially police, constabulary, and militia of a size and with arms designed not for war against the Red Army but to neutralize the East German forces. Their purpose would be to prepare Western Germany for the negotiations, which must take place some time in the fairly near future, for the reunion of Germany and its evacuation.

An allied decision to do this will raise grave questions. One is how the danger of a German civil war is to be averted.

THE next question—after a basis has been found for the Germans for their reunification—will be that of the withdrawal of the occupying armies. It is plain that the United States and its Atlantic allies would not regard a withdrawal of the Red Army to the Polish frontier as a withdrawal. Only a withdrawal to the Russian frontier would be a withdrawal. Where, then, would the American forces withdraw to?

This question, which has often been asked, can only be answered when we make it specific and remember that we are talking about the small ground forces now in Germany. Apart from their function in the control of Germany, their importance lies in the fact that they are in the front line, and that Western Europe cannot be invaded without an automatic participation of the United States. Nobody thinks the American Army in Germany can stop the Red Army. But we hope and believe that the Russians will not move, knowing that the American token army in Germany has behind it the whole military power of the United States.

IF THIS American army were withdrawn from Germany, would there be any place in Western Europe where some token force could be stationed—that of an automatic guarantee of American intervention? That is a question on which the French government will have eventually to make a proposal. It is not inconceivable that the answer can be found in an agreement to maintain a small American guard—the size of it would not much matter—in the Saar. Such an arrangement would provide the automatic guarantee which is the great deterrent to war.

As Our Readers See It

POWER

Those who see not God in themselves are unconscious of the power with which they work and without which they would be dead! For the pull of a body represents the application of power. As the effect is evident, credit should be given the power.

And God being principle works with or against us according to our application of the power expressed. Refusal to recognize this power means hiding behind a wall of ignorance.

Looking upon atheism as a bubble in the mind and God as the eternal reservoir of consciousness from which we all draw power, we can understand the plight of the unbeliever.

Therefore, if we would be born again, out of darkness into light, let us discard the devil dust and see ourselves made one with the power of God.

ENGLISH ACCENT

Just over a month ago you published a letter from me protesting an item on the CBC News Broadcast of March 4, which gave the information that courses for Canadian sailors who are sent to England for training are to be shortened so that our naval men may not be in danger of picking up an English accent.

On the 6th of this month I received a letter from a gentleman on the staff of the CBC in Vancouver, telling me that the Malangu Royal Commission recommended the shortened courses in order that tendencies to an English accent on the part of Canadian sailors may be avoided.

Listeners will be pleased to learn that the CBC is merely giving us the opinion expressed by the Malangu Commission, but I feel sure that most people would like to know why the English accent is so bad for those who serve in Canada's fighting ships.

Canadian sailors are exposed to many accents. It is just possible that in their voyages to the south, when calls are made at ports in the United States, some lads may adopt a slight Yankee, or even a Southern accent. Are these just as dangerous as an English accent? Or there may possibly be tendencies to Scottish, Welsh, Irish, French, or any one of a dozen other accents.

Is an English accent so reprehensible only in the mouths of our sailors? Should we not also purge the speech of the mail carrier, policeman, soldier, and all who are employed by the government? One is bound to admit that it is just possible we may find English accents in high places. One can think of several quite distinct ones whose owners are influential and responsible leaders.

Why is there anything to be ashamed of in possessing an English accent? This question should be settled now. There never was a time when it is so necessary for the peace-loving countries of the British Empire to strengthen the ties which bind us together in one strong, influential company. To single out one country from among our family and say—"Your accents are distasteful and are not wanted" is certainly not the way to bring harmony and team work to the task of defending our heritage.

Men of all accents, colors and creeds have contributed towards the building of our great Empire which so splendidly stood against the forces of evil during the darkest days of the recent war, and saved the western world from catastrophe. The strong courageous leader who called Britain and the Empire to stand fast spoke with a decidedly "English accent." One may still hear those accents coming over the air—"Let us so bear ourselves, that if the British Empire shall last a thousand years, history will say—this was their finest hour."

The need today is just as imperative for a United Empire, working in close and friendly co-operation with all peace-seeking nations throughout the world.

HUMANISM

A correspondent has written to the press to say that without a heavenly father there can be no brotherhood of man. Nothing could be further from the truth. Surely Homo Sapiens (which is just the Latin name for the human race) is sufficiently distinctive a species to ensure that all men, whether white, yellow, brown or black, are much more like each other than any other creature on this earth. Surely our common hopes, aspirations, desires and suffering too are enough to bind us together in a common brotherhood. I wish to quote a few lines from the current number of "The Humanist" (Jan-Feb.):

"Humanism holds before men the ethical ideal of a good society on earth. The values visualized are those which contribute to the most nearly complete joy in living. They include adequate material satisfactions, the perfecting of the art of love and friendship, the open-eyed quest for truth, the creation of beauty, the social values of justice and peace. In a democratic fellowship of all mankind the opportunity for an equal share in the happiness of a full life will be thrown open to all men everywhere..."

I should make it clear that "The Humanist" rejects the supernatural, but, of course, everyone can and should make up his or her own mind on this important matter.

"HUMANIST."

OUR WATER

Re. the letter by Walter Josephs: I have made a lot of enquiries on that, especially since Brentwood is to be supplied with extra chlorine to cure the effects of the Elk Lake bathing pool scheme.

It has cost the taxpayers of Victoria for eight years nearly $100,000 to spoil the beautiful water from Sooke, not counting, as one doctor said, thousands of dollars and ill-health to the drinkers of same—principally stomach troubles.

The dictionary quotes chlorine: "A greenish yellow gas. A powerful disinfectant and bleaching agent." At the end of last season the Empress lawn was bleached and has not yet recovered fully. I experimented with pansies, with dire results.

It has its good purpose; a person can use it as a spray on fruit and rose bushes in place of the expensive sprays bought at the store. Vancouver gave up its use, as a fact never used it, on their beautiful water. Our Sooke supply is more guarded even than Capilano is.

No disease for 40 years in Victoria can be traced to the Sooke supply, and the chances of contamination are many billions to one; so why continue to spend $8,000 a year on a fad of some person when quite unnecessary.

WHAT an amazing drama that was which the people of Istanbul staged yesterday at the state funeral of Turkey's military hero, Marshal Fawzi Cakmak.

As the marshal's casket was being carried from the Beyazit Vezir Mosque to the waiting gun-carriage after the service, a group of citizens seized the coffin and bore it 10 miles to the cemetery at the head of a procession of 50,000 through streets lined with hundreds of thousands more. As they marched away they shouted:

"He came from the people! He belongs to the people, and the people will bury him!"

To understand such a demonstration you must know the Turk. He feels deeply and registers his emotions strongly. I saw an exhibition of this in 1938 in Istanbul at the time of the death of the great Kemal Ataturk, father of modern Turkey. Everywhere, in offices and on the streets, men wept openly. Marshal Cakmak was one of Ataturk's right-hand men. Among the triumphs associated with Cakmak's name was the successful defence of the Dardanelles and Gallipoli in the First World War.

Cakmak's passing will be a sharp reminder of that fateful campaign to all the living military greats and statesmen who were involved. It has been one of the most bitterly disputed military operations of history, but the consensus is that if the Allied plan had succeeded, it would have ended the war two years sooner than the actual conclusion.

The Dardanelles project was the brain child of Winston Churchill. The Allied naval attack by British and French warships was given up as a failure March 18, 1915.

The late Capt. George A. Schreiner, newspaperman and author who was A.P. war correspondent with the Turkish forces defending the Dardanelles, told me that shortly before the fleet withdrew a Turkish officer came to him and said: "Pack up your stuff, Schreiner, and get ready to move. We can't hold out against this bombardment any longer. We are going to withdraw immediately."

So Schreiner packed, and the defenders were all set to retreat when the Allied warships ceased fire. The astonished Turks halted their preparations for evacuation and waited to see what was happening. They got their answer when the fleet sailed away, never to return.

The great Allied military offensive on Gallipoli followed. By the end of July, 1915, that also had failed in a grim welter of death, disease and suffering.

That's how Marshal Cakmak became a hero, and how the Dardanelles campaign perhaps missed a different outcome by a hair's breadth.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TORIN

IT'S good to be smart," said the Elevator Man, "but not too smart. If your own bright ideas prove too much for you, you're better off in the long run if you just forget the whole thing. Take that pigeon fancier in Belgium. He figured somebody was stealing his birds, so he rigged up a gun that would go off when the door to the loft was opened. Next morning he hurried out to count his pigeons and—yep, that's right. Dead as a door nail. He out-smarted himself. Going down!

"Of course," said the Elevator Man, "we shouldn't let that be an argument against using our heads now and then. Just don't use them to stop bullets; that's all, especially our own bullets. And speaking of pigeons and bullets, did you notice that news item about the American Army deciding to keep homing pigeons in service for times when the radio, telephone, walkie-talkie, telephone and other kinds of signals don't work? Lots of times, they say, the pigeons get through when the electronic gadgets are out of order or they have to keep radio silence. That's quite a boost for flesh and blood over vacuum tubes and copper wire. Of course birds aren't directly related to man, but it gives a hope that there might even be a place for the state on the earth amongst all the scientific developments. Lower main!

"The trouble is," said the Elevator Man, "we're liable to gum everything up by pulling a boner, like the Belgian, pigeon breeder. We'll work out such wonderful gadgets and clever contrivances that they'll defeat us in the end. It's just a toss-up now who wins the next round—Adam or the atom. And it'll take more than pigeons to bring us out on top."

THE HOME GARDEN

To Sow Lawn In Fall Start Preparing Now

By JACK G. BEASTALL

There is a difference of opinion as to the best time to sow a new lawn. Some authorities declare April to be the month and back up their belief with sound arguments. Others prefer a fall sowing in this district.

One thing is certain, a spring sown lawn will need careful and adequate watering in the months to come.

Because a lawn is a permanent planting thorough soil preparation is essential, and now is the time to begin if you want to sow this fall.

Artificial drainage is necessary if there is any tendency for water to collect on the site.

HUMUS NEEDED

Heavy soils will require humus to lighten them, while light soils need the same for body.

Peat moss may be incorporated into the top four inches of soil, or compost, providing it is from a pile which heated sufficiently to kill weed seeds. Organic matter may also be supplied by sowing a green manure crop and turning it under.

Barnyard manures are not desirable because they contain quantities of weed seeds, some of which may not germinate for several years.

When lime is needed to sweeten an acid soil, ground limestone or hydrated lime is used, and it is wise to apply this some months in advance of sowing.

To keep the site weed free, well cultivated, and still producing, potatoes have long been used as a pre-lawn crop.

In planning your lawn make it as large an expanse as possible. Small, odd-shaped plots cause more work than they are worth. Their size is insufficient to please the eye, and their purpose, mainly to make a foreground for the home buildings, cannot be achieved.

Fall In U.S. Coal Output Spread Unemployment

Production Drops To 400,000,000 Tons And Transport Workers Face Idleness

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The United States soft-coal industry today is suffering from curtailed production while even greater woes are foreseen in the immediate future.

Industry spokesmen predict spreading unemployment and a chain of mine closings as a result of reduced coal output and the inroads of competitive fuels.

The 8,000 bituminous (soft coal) mines in the country produced a record-breaking 631,000,000 tons in 1947. Now they are reverting to a normal market estimated at around 400,000,000 tons. Last year 430,000,000 tons was dug despite several strikes.

Many high cost or low quality mines already are being squeezed out, and thousands of miners are joining the ranks of job hunters.

There are 400,000 soft-coal miners in the United States. The National Coal Association estimates 50,000 coal miners will be jobless in coming months. Another 50,000 transport workers, who haul coal from mine to market, also will be laid off, the N.G.A. predicts, as the result of oil imports alone.

Natural gas and fuel oil continue to creep into fields once dominated by coal. Railroads are changing from coal-burning locomotives to diesel engines.

Dr. James Boyd, director of the United States Bureau of Mines, has warned the mining industry to get ready to retrench. He told the American Zinc Institute at St. Louis:

"Unfortunately some operators in the high cost category may be unable to escape the pressure of economic events. The postwar stock-piling has unfortunately added to the uncertainties of the industry."

SAUERKRAUT IS ONE OF THE WORLD'S MOST HEALTHFUL VEGETABLE DISHES

Recommended for Spring Eating Because It Actually Increases Appetite

Sauerkraut is more than a delicious vegetable; it is a valuable addition to diet. A favorite for centuries because of its pleasantly stimulating flavor, science has found that sauerkraut is among the most valuable of preventive and corrective foods.

EASY TO DIGEST
Sauerkraut has all the beneficial properties of cabbage in a more easily digested form, and it is more valuable as a food. The process which it undergoes produces lactic acid, the same type of lactic acid which is found in buttermilk, yogurt and sour milk, all of which are well-known for their health-giving properties.

PRaised BY SCIENTISTS
Among the many scientists who have been convinced of the great value of sauerkraut is Pasteur, the father of Pasteurization, who placed it first of all vegetables from a health standpoint. Sauerkraut has often been prescribed as an appetizer and an aid to digestion, and is known to have the effect of retarding many diseases of middle and old age.

DESERVES POPULARITY
Sauerkraut, which rates so high in food value, is one of the most healthful and most economical vegetable dishes you can purchase. And, in the words of a keep them in condition, pink-cheeked, bright-eyed, and with keen appetite and increased capacity for other dishes on the menu than any other thing I know of."

MODERN METHODS INCREASE VALUE OF SAUERKRAUT

Sauerkraut as made today in Libby's modern kitchens is far superior to that made by old-fashioned methods. Only the choicest cabbages are used, and they are finely cut with absolute uniformity by specially constructed machines. This insures even and uniform fermentation. The correct proportions of salt and cabbages are scientifically maintained and the temperature is regulated. The most scrupulous cleanliness is observed throughout the entire process of manufacture and a uniformly high grade product is the result.

SAUERKRAUT IS MOST DIGESTIBLE FORM OF CABBAGE

Sauerkraut contains all the elements of the cabbage, but is much easier to digest. It is health-giving by the nature of its preparation.

PRESERVE JUICE SERVING SAUERKRAUT

The sauerkraut juice which is included whether you buy Libby's Sauerkraut as it is the can, or in salads or in soups. When sauerkraut is served with its beneficial lactic acid content is preserved and its beneficial effects are maintained.

SIMPLE RECIPE PREPARATION OF SAUERKRAUT

While the slight safeguarding of vitamins in an open pan is a disadvantage, the use of a pressure cooker is a definite advantage. Because sauerkraut is so easily digested, it is a most desirable food for the elderly and for those who are recovering from illness.

Not to cook sauerkraut and meats very long together as the acids penetrate the meat and tend to decrease its beneficial lactic acid content. Just cook the fatty meats until quite well done, then add the sauerkraut, cooking together only until the meat becomes thoroughly heated. Sauerkraut just as it comes from the can retains all of its vitamins and its properties when served as a

Canada Benefits When Living Standards Rise

Industrialization Of Backward Lands May Add To Customers Needing Goods

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

Two important facts concerning Canadian trade and our manner of living are presented graphically by John A. Marsh, general manager of the Canadian Exporters' Association.

First: Our appetite for material things has been whetted by American advertising and selling, and our ability to gratify those tastes has been determined mainly by our success in selling to Europe. Mr. Marsh adds:

"Chief among those attractive markets is the United Kingdom, and we in this case, government and trade alike, must not assume that we have explored every avenue and exhausted every effort to have trade resumed between us, because we have not."

"There can be no wise attitude of disinterested witness on the part of Canada to the problems of either the United Kingdom or Europe. The plain fact is that Canada needs Old Country markets fully as much as they need ours."

NEW APPETITES

His second idea is:

The achievement of industrialization by countries now under-developed does not mean they need cease to be our customers. For:

"Industrialization means higher standards of living and the creation of appetites by sub-standard peoples for the same luxuries we in the new world enjoy."

"We are a great exporting nation but, despite our degree of self-sufficiency, we are also the greatest per capita importing nation in the world. Our industrial resource has not diminished our propensity for buying abroad; it has accentuated it. The raising of standards of living does not make nations self-sufficient. It makes them inter-dependent."

Mr. Marsh presented these ideas Wednesday in an address to the Electrical Club of Montreal. He also outlined the considerable difficulties which are handicapping countries in the trade which they need to do with one another, but he gave the following favorable factors in Canada's position:

"Barring the atom bomb, bacterial warfare and a third world war, standards of living throughout the world can go only one way: up, not down, and the increased purchasing power will enhance the export position of both primary and secondary products in the 'have nations', of which Canada is one.

"Our geographical position gives up shipping advantages to both the Orient and Occident with a goodly proportion of our products to be found on both coasts for overseas shipment."

"The manufacturing world of the future will be led by nations possessing electric and atomic power. The workmen of the North American continent have more horsepower at their finger tips than any workman in the world and need not be costed or engineered out of the market by the workmen of any nation."

"Canada has across her only national boundary the greatest active market in the world and the nation with the greatest buying power. Though not entirely complementary in needed products, there are sufficient geographical differences to make mutual trade a steady and abiding thing."

Shortage Of 1,000 Teachers Predicted In B.C. In 4 Years

VANCOUVER (CP)—A "potential shortage" of 1,000 teachers in B.C. by 1954 was predicted Wednesday before the annual convention of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation.

Robert H. Heywood, committee chairman, made the prediction in commenting on a Canadian Educational Association survey which shows that more than 4,500 teachers will be needed in the province between 1950 and 1954. He said: "As we are currently training fewer than 700 teachers a year, we face a potential shortage of 1,000 teachers in 1954, not counting those now teaching on temporary certificates of whom there were more than 300 in 1948-49."

Two solutions were offered: Mr. Heywood said elevation of the teaching profession "through better selection, longer training and high standards of certification" was needed. But also of concern are better salaries, better pensions and improved living conditions.

L. F. Prior, federation public relations committee chairman, said he wondered if it was safe to plug possible teacher shortage gaps and then perhaps face a surplus.

The provincial government general policy of removing the cost of education from rural area was outlined at the convention by Dr. F. T. Fairley, deputy education minister.

Asks Government Maintain Highway

A delegation of municipal council members from Surrey, Langley and Matsqui called on Works Minister E. C. Carson today to ask the provincial government assume responsibility of maintaining and operating a road which runs through all three municipalities on the south side of the Fraser River. Delegation members said the road in its present state was really a series of roads maintained by the separate municipalities. They asked the road be certified as an arterial highway.

They argued if made into a first-class highway, the road would help alleviate traffic now going over the so-called Trans-Canada Highway. Alex Hope, M.L.A. for Delta, introduced the delegation to the minister.

Canada's 1949 Minerals Hit Record Production

Statistics Bureau Says $890,200,000 Total 8.5 Per Cent Increase Over 1948

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's mineral production hit a record value in 1949.

The all-Canada total, reported by the Bureau of Statistics, was $890,200,000, an increase of 8.5 per cent over the previous peak of $820,249,000 in 1948.

Of the 1949 total, Ontario accounted for slightly more than a third. Quebec was next with 18 per cent; British Columbia had 15 per cent; Alberta 13 per cent, and other provinces in lower categories.

British Columbia's 1949 output was valued at $133,395,400 compared with $148,223,600 and Alberta $116,171,900 compared with $93,211,200.

Value of production for the remaining western provinces and territories with 1948 figures in brackets: Nova Scotia, $57,766,500 ($56,400,200); Saskatchewan, $34,704,000 ($34,517,200); Manitoba, $24,135,300 ($26,081,300); Northwest Territories, $6,868,300 ($4,267,500); and Yukon, $4,991,200 ($4,265,900).

Mass Education Cause Of Mediocrity, Says Teacher

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. W. G. Hardy, head of the Department of Classics at the University of Alberta, Edmonton, said Wednesday that mass education in North America has resulted in "a sort of lowest common denominator of dull mediocrity."

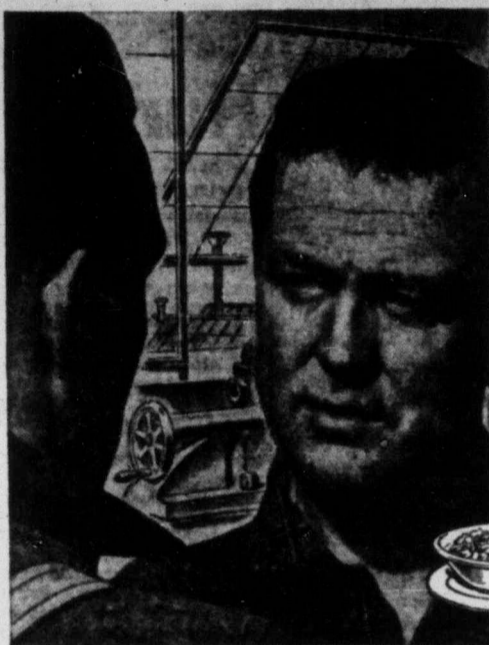

Addressing the supervising and training section of the Ontario Educational Association, he said that another result has been an under-educated and over-opinionated mass of people.

He said students arrive at the University of Alberta unable to spell or to write a good English sentence. It has been necessary for the university to establish a course in remedial English. One popular educational theory was that students should study what interests them. But they usually study what interests the teacher, Dr. Hardy suggested.

He reported that the "enterprise system" resulted in one Alberta student knowing a great deal about Mexico, although she could not tell him the location of Montreal.

From 1900 to 1911, in the wave of immigration, Saskatchewan's population increased 439 per cent.

DOUBLE EMPRESS TRIUMPH VIEWED BY ERIC HIBBERSON

Eric Hibberson of Uplands stood a good chance of becoming a double winner in the 20th annual Empress Golf tournament as the tourney went into its fourth day at Colwood Golf Club today.

The long hitting Uplands star was the only Victorian left in the championship flight following Wednesday's round when he eliminated medalist Tom Dooley of Portland.

Hibberson also went to the semifinals of the men's open with a 6 and 5 victory over Ken Lindsey of Seattle. Vic Painter, the defending champion was eliminated by Paul Florio of Seattle, 2 up. In other matches Art Christopher defeated Brian Hunnings, 4 and 2, and Bill McColl turned back Jim Squire of Seattle, 3 and 2.

Semifinals of the open are slated for this afternoon with the finals on Friday.

Meanwhile in the championship division play entered the quarter final round today with three Canadians and five Americans in the eight select places. Semis are set for Friday with the finals on Saturday.

In the women's section upsets were not out of order as medalist Marcia Dorman also went down to defeat losing to Mrs. E. Narver of Portland.

Wednesday was the final day for the women at Victoria Golf Club. They will conclude their tournament play at Colwood with the finals slated for Saturday.

Wednesday's results follow: MEN'S CHAMPIONSHIP E. Hibberson defeated T. E. Dooley 2 and 1. J. A. Squire defeated R. McEwan 2 and 1. A. D. Davis defeated S. S. Seak 1 up. P. Florio defeated E. Thierstein 3 and 1. R. L. Jaggar defeated B. Hunnings 2 and 1. Dr. L. Schuler defeated Dr. F. Fowler 3 and 1. Capt. V. Williams defeated E. T. Ringstad 3 and 2. C. H. Starr defeated J. K. McMillan 3 and 2.

NEW W.I.L. ENTRY HAS FAMILIAR NOTE Tri-City Braves Will Feature Many Former Wenatchee Players

LINDSAY, Calif. (AP)—Down here in the land of slightly frosted oranges a guy named Charley Peterson has been building a brand new team for the Western International League, but it sounds sorta familiar.

Boss Peterson is head man afield for the Tri-City Braves, who will represent the Pasco-Richland-Kennecook community this year. It's a new home town and a new name, but folks from up north say the team roster reads a lot like the Wenatchee Chiefs of 1949.

And it should. When the owners of the Chiefs switched cities they took along Peterson and a strong nucleus from the team that finished fourth last season.

Hammering Clint Cameron, the league's top hitter last year, is a for-instance. Slugging Jim Warner is another. Burly catcher Nick Pesut has stretched a new "Braves" uniform around a figure once dedicated to the "Chiefs." Pesut has been knocking down the fences here in spring training.

In the flinging department the Braves have a battle-proven quartette in southpaw Cy Greenlaw and Lou McCollum, and Bill

Caplinger and Joe Orell. The latter, a former Detroit speed-burner, spends a lot of time tossing a three-pound iron ball from hand to hand. When he gets hold of a baseball it feels (to him) like a feather and looks (to the batter) like a navy bean.

NEW HURLERS

New moundsmen include Charlie Steglich, Dick Stone and Ted Hussey, with more likely to come down from the Sacramento Coast League team, big brother to the Braves.

The team picked up Vic Bucola, a proven first sacker, from the Yankees and now appears well set in the infield. Peterson is high on his rookie shortstop, Artie Wilson—no relation to the Oakland short-patcher of the same name. Neil Bryant, an ex-Chief, is at third, and Al Spaetz was obtained from San Diego to handle second.

With all the veterans around it's tough for a bushier to crack the lineup, but several hometown products are making the try. Heading the list—and likely to stick—is Johnny "Sugar" Scherger, getting a late start but still a rookie. An outfielder, he has been showing lots of spirit and swinging a wicked bat.

Pitcher Les Logg and infielder Jim Doyle are others the home fans will be watching for when Tri-City opens its season in its own brand new park next Tuesday against Vancouver.

While most managements are highly optimistic at this time of year, business boss Dick Richards won't go overboard—aloud—for his Braves. Vancouver and Victoria will be better and "you can," he says, "count on Alan Strange to come up with a contender in Spokane."

The champion Yakima Bears, farm team of Lefty O'Doul's San Francisco Seals, have everything—says Richards—"except O'Doul's upper plate."

BOSTON-BROOKLYN RULE FAVORITES FOR PENNANTS

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Boston Red Sox and Brooklyn Dodgers are the favorites to win the major league baseball races, according to odds released today by J. J. Carroll, St. Louis betting commissioner.

Odds on the Red Sox to win the American League flag are 13 to 10, meaning that a bettor favoring the Bostonians could win $13 on a $10 wager. Odds on the Dodgers, last year's National League champions, are narrower at 6 to 5.

Mooty, Jensen Hurls A's To Win

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES KAMLOOPS — The Victoria Athletics walloped a Kamloops squad 18 to 2 in an exhibition game in Riverside Park on Wednesday afternoon. Playing their first game of the year and using many junior players in the line-up the Kamloops nine didn't give the Athletics much more than a good workout.

Jake Mooty and Bob Jensen shared the pitching chores for Victoria. Jake started and Bob took over in the start of the sixth.

Mooty struck out five men and walked three, all in the first inning, while he was on the mound. Jake's control was good after the first frame and he only gave up three hits. For the most part he took things easy and bore down only when he had to.

Jensen has control. Jensen also gave up three hits

Lewicki Stars For Marlboros

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Danny Lewicki fired two counters in the third period Wednesday night to spark Toronto Marlboros to a 7-to-4 victory over Sherbrooke Saints in the opener of their best-of-seven eastern Canada Allan Cup final series.

A crowd of 4,500 saw the Ontario Hockey Association champions run roughshod in the final session to down a heavier, more experienced Sherbrooke squad. Bill (Red) Johnson also got a pair of goals for Marlboros while Al Buchanan, Gordie Hannigan, and Bobby Hassard accounted for the other Toronto markers.

Table with 4 columns: Team, W, L, Pct. Rows include Hollywood, San Diego, San Francisco, Portland, Los Angeles, Oakland, Seattle, Sacramento.

Monday Final Date For Baseball Entries

All teams seeking entry in the Victoria Baseball Association this season must file applications not later than Monday night. A meeting will be held for all officials, team managers and players and anyone else interested at the British Public Schools Club, Langley Street, Monday evening at 8.

RANGERS READY TO TIE SERIES

Blame Over-Confidence For Loss To Detroit

TORONTO (CP)—New York Rangers expect to tie up the Stanley Cup final against Detroit Red Wings here tonight.

Not in the least overawed by Detroit's great record in league play, nor by Detroit's narrow victory over Toronto Maple Leafs in the cup semifinal, the Rangers figure they are on the march. They blame the loss of the first cup game at Detroit on over-confidence. Wings won the opener 4 to 1 at Detroit Tuesday.

This is the first time the Rangers have been in the cup final since 1940, when they beat Toronto for their third Stanley Cup triumph. The others were in 1928 and 1933.

Ranger coach Lynn Patrick said flatly: "We can beat them."

He put his players through a tough workout here yesterday and made it plain he was disappointed in the initial defeat. Rangers had a 1 to 0 lead in the first game but Detroit scored all their goals in the second period. Patrick said "It looked as if they didn't care whether they won or lost. They didn't look hungry. We were too cocky after that first period."

The Rangers have 24 players available, including sub-goalie Emile Francis, up from the New Haven Ramblers and veteran of former seasons in the N.H.L.

It's New Westminster vs. Los Angeles for the Pacific Coast League hockey championship.

Royals captured the northern division title by downing Vancouver Canucks 3 to 2 last night in overtime for a four-to-three game margin.

They go to Los Angeles, where the best-of-seven game championship playoffs opens Saturday night. The second game will be played Monday night in Los Angeles, then the series shifts to New Westminster.

New Westminster broke the ice in the second at the 4:27 mark when (Dutch) Evers sank Don Slater's relay to go ahead. Bobby Ballance evened it up four minutes later when he beat Ron Pickell on a pass from Reardon. Shill, from Eric Unger, followed two minutes later.

'Y' CLUB MEET MAY PRODUCE HIDDEN TALENT

100 Swimmers To Enter Annual Event Friday

Hidden talent is often uncovered in a club meet such as the "Y" Swimming Club is putting on at the Crystal Garden Friday night. And coach Archie McKinnon believes he has some of this dormant ability in the youngsters who will take part in the 30 events on the program.

Take Gillian Watson for example. She is only 12 years of age but already she is being groomed as a coming star. But Gillian hasn't got things all to her liking in the under 13 division and expected to give her the stiffest competition in the forthcoming gala is another young prospect, Merlyn Naylor.

In the under 15 class there's Ann Heywood and Peta McGowan and in the boys under 15 division there's John Whan, Merlin Hawes and George Denison. These are only a few of the 100-odd swimmers that will take part in the championships and because they're mentioned here it doesn't necessarily follow that they are the cream of the crop.

The program gets under way at 7 but all swimmers are asked to be on hand at least 15 minutes before that time.

FROM THE FANSTAND

By PETE SALLAWAY, Times Sports Editor

Victoria Athletics were handed a first-class double shuffle by the New York Yankees in the Vic Buccola deal. At the close of last season's play the major league club informed business manager Reg Patterson it planned to exercise its rights and select the flashy fielding first baseman. However, west coast officials of the Yankees assured Patterson Buccola would not come back into the Western International League. It was their claim they wanted Vic as managerial material.

No Chance To Buy Him Back

Under those conditions Patterson did not protest too strongly over the loss of the club's infield star. Patterson, of course, was not too happy about all the money the club paid out to get Buccola from Oakland of the Coast League. With the Yankees picking him off the Athletics lost any chance of getting any return on their investment. On the other hand, the Victoria club did not want to place any obstacles in the path of Vic if he was to get a playing manager's job.

Now the Athletics are faced with the prospect of Buccola as an opponent. He will certainly help the Tri-City entry. Why didn't the Yankees give the Athletics a chance to buy Buccola's contract? In view of the treatment Vic received from the Victoria team I feel sure he would much rather have come back here than perform in the livery of owner Dick Richards' outfit. All in all, it looks as if the Victoria club is well rid of the Yankees. The major league club made too many promises that were never kept.

Softballers Promise Action

There's lots of action these days on the softball front. Dropping in for coffee at a favorite hangout of the big apple artists, I listened to Tommy Johnston hold forth on the smart club the Blue Bird Club will trot out come the season opener late this month. "We'll be no last-place team this season," he cracked. "Had 37 players out to practice last Sunday, including a couple of pitchers who'll open the eyes of the fans. One buzz-ball pitcher can throw that ball harder than anybody I've ever seen work in the local league. He's another Buzz Haugh." As Johnston left I reminded him he would have to back up his statements come September.

Minutes later Jim Lackie, canny manager of the Douglas Tire outfit, strolled in with his ace pitcher Ken Gunter. The latter was hobbling like a broken-down racehorse. "Had an operation on my knee Saturday but will be ready to toss the first game," was his reply to my question as to his trouble.

Despite the loss of infielders Taylor and Robinson to the Chinese Students, Lackie figures he has another championship club under his wing. "Alan Senior is living up to all reports as a pitcher and I have picked up some real offensive strength in this fellow Jensen who played hockey for me. He hits a ball as far as Vic Dale. Don't ever worry about my team—it will be a contender all the way."

Joe Evans In New Field

Late arrival for the mug up was Cougar Joe Evans. The hockey player has taken a job driving a truck for one of the bakery firms and will remain around town all summer. "This is a great job to keep the legs in shape, although last night when I got home I was mighty glad to park on the chesterfield and stay there." Evans still has the cast on his broken wrist and figures it will remain for another month at least.

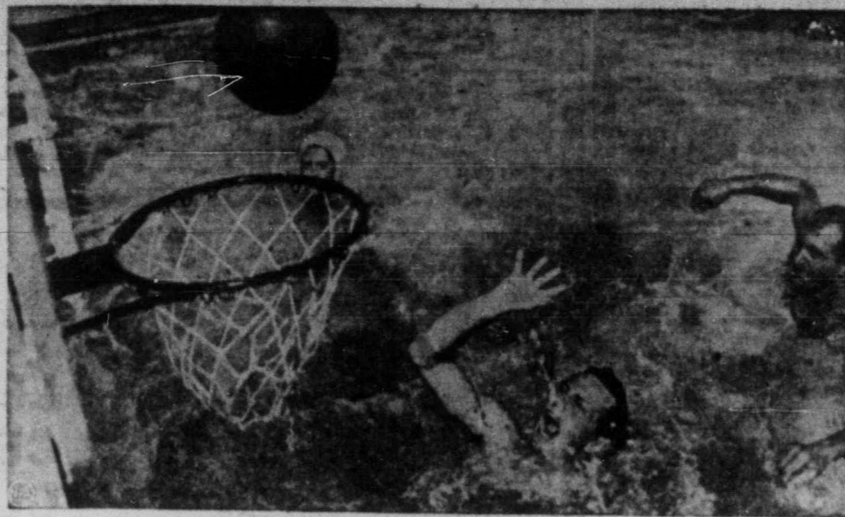

Hope To Break U.S. Domination At Wimbledon

LONDON (UP)—The three-year stranglehold held by United States players on the men's singles tennis championship at Wimbledon was threatened today, despite the larger number of Americans who will compete at the famed court this year. Observers here feel that the American grip may be broken because last year's champion Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif., will not return to defend his crown.

Schroeder has announced he will pass up the Wimbledon tournament in order to concentrate on winning the United States singles championship which has eluded him in the past. That leaves Billy Talbert of New York, ranked third in the United States, as the leading American entry.

Fight Results

New York—Johnny Breeze, 123½, Paterson, N.J., drew with Billy Bossio, 120½, Pittsburgh, Pa. (8). Milwaukee—Cal Vernon, 176, Milwaukee, outpointed Billy Davis, 175, Indianapolis (6).

New Version Of Basketball

A water-basketball enthusiast scores on a deep water lay-up shot at Miami Beach, Fla. Played much the same as water polo, the hoop makes all the difference, and being held under water, is just as uncomfortable.

Durnan, Lach, Leger May Be Missing From Les Canadiens

MONTREAL (UP)—Three members of the Montreal Canadiens may retire from hockey before next season, but it seemed certain today no definite announcements would be made until late summer.

Goalie Bill Durnan has already announced his pending retirement and it was believed centreman Elmer Lach and defenceman Roger Leger also were considering hanging up their skates.

The off-season has a way of making players change their minds about retiring, however. At the end of the 1948-49 fray the much-injured Lach said he was through with hockey. But when it came to pre-season training last fall, he was one of the first players to report to the St. Hyacinthe training camp. Chicago Black Hawks' Roy Conacher did the same thing a year ago after leading National Hockey League scorers.

This time, however, retirements seemed definitely in the offing in the Montreal camp. The team had a host of younger players with the American League, Quebec Senior League and Quebec Junior Hockey Association farm clubs and room must be made for them sometime.

Durnan announced he would quit while he was under the strain of a bad case of nerves. The 35-year-old Vezina trophy winner hadn't been feeling well since he was injured in a game at Chicago early in March. Gerry McNeil, a 24-year-old, has been ready for National League play for the past two seasons, but because Durnan was in the seniors, McNeil played with the Montreal Royals in 1948-49 and last season with the Cincinnati Mohawks of the American League.

McNeil guarded the nets in two playoff contests with the Canadiens as well as in a six-game stretch during Durnan's absence in March. He gave a creditable performance which made the Canadiens feel that should Durnan retire, the club would be all set with McNeil.

Lach has had a topsy-turvy career. In his first season, he injured his left arm and since then hasn't been able to raise it above his shoulder. Once he had a fractured skull and two seasons ago he received two jaw fractures within a few months. Leger had been an effective defenceman for the Canadiens for several seasons after starry seasons with the Buffalo Bisons of the American League. He's now a little slow on his skates, and the Canadiens may hand him a coaching job before next season in their vast farm organization.

LACROSSE PRACTICE Jokers senior "B" lacrosse team will hold a practice Sunday morning at Stevenson Park at 10. All interested players are asked to attend.

Summer Sports Ready To Take Over In Dominion

Baseball, softball, golf and tennis are restlessly nudging hockey to the sidelines again as Canadian sportsmen prepare for another summer.

These four, together with yachting, bowling, racing and swimming, will be in full swing within a few weeks, a Canadian Press survey shows.

There's still life, though, in Canada's traditional winter sports. Although Toronto and Montreal have been eliminated from the Stanley Cup playoffs, New York plays two games against Detroit in Toronto this week to keep big-time hockey fans happy.

Amateur hockey, including competition for the Allan and Memorial Cups, is still going strong. Some basketball titles are still to be decided. They're still curling at Kirkland Lake, Ont., where a schoolboy bonspiel was held this week.

Canada's top professional baseball teams—Toronto and Montreal of the class AAA International League—start their home seasons May 3. Crowds of 20,000 are expected in both cities, providing the weather is good.

GET SUNDAY SPORT

Four days later there'll be a big innovation in Toronto sport. It will be the city's first Sunday game. Recent Ontario legislation permits Sunday sport in cities where a majority of taxpayers favor it. Toronto and Windsor voters have okayed the idea.

British Columbia, despite an unusually severe winter, is well into the spring sport swirl. Golf courses and tennis courts already are jammed. Lacrosse practices are under way. The Western International Baseball League, in which Vancouver and Victoria are represented, starts its schedule April 18.

Late snow has put a damper on Edmonton's hopes for an early start at golf and baseball. But conditions are expected to be satisfactory for the start of the Big Four intercity baseball season next month. Edmonton and Calgary each has two teams in the loop. Golf is the most popular sport of the "little man" in Alberta. Fishing and boating are popular.

SNOW TROUBLESOME

Baseball and softball get under their first rounds late this month and to get into full swing by May 15. Quebec Braves, champions of the Canadian-American Professional Baseball League, starts another season May 3. Pacers and trotters go to the post in Quebec May 14 for the first of 100 scheduled spring and summer programs. More than 400 horses will compete for a total of $175,000 in purses.

With hockey and basketball finished, New Brunswick has nothing special on the sport diary until June, when a six-team provincial baseball league and two Maine-New Brunswick circuits go into action. Tennis and boating also are late starters in New Brunswick.

New Orleans, La.—Gaby Ferland, 145½, Montreal, drew with Carmen Basilio, 142, Syracuse, N.Y. (10).

Big Smelter May Be Built At Edmonton

EDMONTON (CP)—Possible construction of a big ore smelter in these parts and a rail outlet for the mineral and gold deposits in the Great Slave Lake and Yellowknife areas of the Northwest Territories was seen here today.

All hinge on the spring activity of engineers of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company near Pine Point, N.W.T. They are making final preparations to sink a 350-foot shaft to prove up the vast lead-zinc ore body believed to lie along the southern shore of Great Slave Lake, about 540 miles north of Edmonton.

Consolidated and three other large Canadian mining companies are spending $1,000,000 developing and exploring 6,000 square miles in the Pine Point region this year.

If large ore bodies are proved up, a smelter and a 400-mile railroad would have to be built from Peace River, Alta., to bring it out, mining sources said.

"It will be the greatest single development the north country has ever known," commented L. E. Drummond, secretary-manager of the Alberta and Northwest Chamber of Mines.

First step in the transport scheme for the project will come this week when Canadian Pacific Air Lines makes application before the Board of Transport Commissioners in Yellowknife for a charter to land at the newly-built Pine Point air strip.

Because no coal or natural gas is available at Great Slave Lake to operate a multi-million dollar smelter, the plant may have to be built farther south, perhaps in Edmonton.

Jim McEvoy, well-known Edmonton mining man, said that "if the railroad goes through it will be the best thing that ever happened to that country."

36,000 Loggers Line Up For Wage Negotiations

W.I.U.C. Pledges Support In Parleys To International On 17-Cent Demand

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's 36,000 loggers are pulling their union ranks together for wage negotiations set to open Saturday.

Former officials of the big International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) who led a breakaway from the union in 1948 are making peace offers to the I.W.A.

The rebel group set up the Woodworkers' Industrial Union of Canada, an independent union. Now the W.I.U.C. is backing the I.W.A. in this year's negotiations and stressing unity among woodworkers.

Approval Given To Purchase Waterworks

Approval has been given by the provincial cabinet to the City of Cumberland to begin proceedings for purchase of a waterworks system owned and operated by Cumberland and Union Co. Ltd.

Cabinet approval to a recent city-by-law passed for this purpose was handed down Wednesday by order-in-council.

The waterworks will cost the City of Cumberland $55,000.

A W.I.U.C. policy statement pledges support to the I.W.A. and adds that this support "will pave the way to unification of all woodworkers in the industry into one union."

The statement was signed by W.I.U.C. president Harold Pritchett, former I.W.A. president who led the 1948 breakaway.

The I.W.A. has rejected the "peace feelers" and has refused to readmit the "rebels" as a group. However, a few have been readmitted individually.

Since attempting to lead B.C.'s loggers out of the I.W.A., the I.W.A. has survived the breakaway and is once more B.C.'s biggest union.

The I.W.A. now claims a membership of around 28,000.

The I.W.A. will ask an increase of 17 cents an hour and union shop. The W.I.U.C. pledged its "time, energy and effort" and "co-operation on all levels."

The W.I.U.C. said a solid front was needed to defeat operators' demand for wage cuts and changes in working hours.

Unions Not Joining May Day Parade

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver's two labor councils will have no part of the May Day "labor" parade here. The Vancouver Labor Council (C.C.L.) and the Vancouver and District Trades and Labor Council (T.L.C.) have refused to endorse the parade. Leftist unions were reported "behind the parade."

Exports of Australian wool in the year ended June 30, 1949, reached a record £231,664,000, compared with £148,738,000 the previous year.

Big Timber Deal

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Eureka Sawmills of Nanaimo and Vancouver have purchased 34,226,000 board feet of timber on Sonora Island offered at auction here. The price paid was $272,000. It was one of the largest government timber sales in the last two years. Twenty-five logging firms bid for the island stand.

THE STORY: Clemency Norton, young, eager to travel, goes with Wrie Amberley to an isolated, but luxurious home in the North African desert as nursery governess to Wrie's small daughter Baba. The house belongs to Piers Amberley, brother of Wrie's husband Jon, on whose generosity the married couple is obviously dependent. Clemency was told that Jon was in ill-health, but on the evening of Wrie's return he comes to the nursery to visit Baba.

INSTALLMENT 4

It was impossible for Clemency, who was forced to watch the tableau, not to see Wrie Amberley's quick jerk away, and the tightening of her husband's embrace as he deliberately drew her closer and held her, his mouth against hers.

Then Jon released Wrie. "Sorry I wasn't there to greet you when you got back from England. Did Piers tell you I'd been out in the midday sun?"

"He mentioned it. Are you all right?" Wrie was smiling at him now. "I was afraid you might be really ill, when you didn't turn up at the airport."

"No. First headache I've had since you went away."

"Well, don't get any more," Wrie turned to Clemency. "This is my husband—as you will have guessed, Miss Norton. Miss Norton is Baba's new nursery governess."

"So I gathered from Piers," he shook hands. "Hope both my young women behaved on the journey, Miss Norton."

"Beautifully," said Clemency, and added significantly: "But Baba is dropping with sleep. And now she has seen her Daddy she's going to bed like a good girl."

Clemency led the way into the night nursery, and as Jon Amberley bent to put his daughter between the turned-back sheets of her white bed, she had the opportunity of observing him more closely.

He was taller than his brother, and no one who did not know would have suspected the tie between them. Jon was fair, and once must have been very good looking; but now he had the appearance of a man who had been ravaged by illness. His cheeks were sunken and there were deep violet shadows under his eyes. There was no doubt about his remarkably good features, but it was a weak face—with none of his brother's bitterness; it also lacked Piers Amberley's strength.

As they turned away, he said: "She needs someone to be good to her. Neither Wrie nor myself are exactly successful in the role of parent."

It was difficult to make a comment on that. As they went back into the nursery they found it empty. Wrie had not waited for her husband, a fact which did not seem to surprise him. He lingered for a few minutes asking Clemency if she knew this part of the world, and managed to find out exactly how she came to be there.

LITTLE SYMPATHY

She was somehow relieved when he had gone. She had the feeling that she ought to be sorry for him but she could not rid herself of a slight sense of something more than distaste. He certainly had a charm which his elder brother did not possess.

Jon Amberley looked unhappy, and he was probably quite nice. What Clemency did know for certain was that she would have given a good deal not to have to go downstairs and join the Amberley family for dinner.

The ordeal was even worse than she had expected.

The big, square hall was beautiful. The floor inlaid with black and white mosaic; the colors of the deep rugs strewn about it glowed with jewel-like brilliance—rose and sapphire blue and the clear green of emeralds. The porphyry of the walls was rose color, flecked with gold, and the pillars which supported the galleries that ran all around the hall were of dull beaten silver inlaid with lumps of rose quartz. Clemency had often seen paintings of the interior of eastern houses, but none of them had rivalled the exotic beauty of this portion of Piers Amberley's. Here was no attempt to modernize or westernize. Great silver lamps hung from the roof, and carved arches covered by silken curtains gave access to the rooms which led off the hall.

Through the one to which Justine had directed her came the strains of a radio-phonograph playing a Strauss waltz. It was the one incongruous touch, but somehow it did not seem that way—perhaps because Clemency adored Strauss waltzes.

She lifted the curtain and went in, dropping it behind her. For a moment or two she paused unnoticed on the threshold of the room. Wrie had a dinner gown of some soft, draping material the color of an aqua-marine, lounged back in a deep chair, a vivid violet cushion behind her red-gold hair, a cigarette in a black onyx holder between her lips.

HANDSOME MAN

Not far away Piers Amberley sat, reading a magazine—very distinguished-looking in his orthodox black and white. Jon was standing by the big record player. He looked less haggard in the shaded golden light of the lamps and Clemency realized that he was startlingly good looking.

This room was as eastern as the hall. Silver pillars again, but the walls of lapis and silver—the upholstery and hangings almost barbaric in their vivid hues. The vividness of Wrie fitted into it—but the men in their perfectly cut clothes struck an alien note. And yet she felt that the picture before her ought to have been a perfect conversation piece—only there was no conversation.

Each one of those three people seemed apart—absorbed in his or her own pursuits. Wrie in her thoughts, Piers Amberley in his reading, and Jon in the music to which he was lightly beating time with one hand.

She stood there, feeling an embarrassed interloper, wishing she could make her escape. Then Jon turned his head and saw her. At the same moment the record came to an end. For a moment Jon Amberley stared at the girl by the door without recognition. (To Be Continued)

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Gallstones Most Common With Women Over 30 Years

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

Gallstones are most common after 30 and especially between 40 and 50. Three-fourths of all cases are in women. The stones lie in or near the gallbladder, which is a pear-shaped pouch lying under the liver on the right side a short distance below the ribs. It holds liquid called bile and it empties this material down a small duct into the intestines.

Stagnation of bile in the gallbladder may lead to the formation of stones. Overweight, wearing of corsets, occupations requiring a leaning forward position and sagging of the abdominal organs are believed to lead to such stagnation.

Gallstones may be present without causing any symptoms. The most common early symptom, however, is indigestion. There is often a vague feeling of discomfort in the abdomen, a sense of fullness, a good deal of intestinal gas and sometimes nausea and vomiting occur. Often there is pain in the region of the gallbladder or under the right shoulder in the back.

Jaundice or a yellow color to the skin is not always present. A gallstone may get caught in the neck of the gallbladder or in the passageway going down to the intestines. When this happens there is severe pain called colic. The most important aid in diagnosing gallstones is the X-ray. Sometimes the stones can be seen in an ordinary X-ray picture; in many cases, however, a dye has to be given which fills the gallbladder and outlines the stones in a silhouette picture.

FACTORS WEIGHED

When gallstones are found the question comes up as to whether or not the gallbladder should be taken out by operation. This decision depends on how many attacks of colic there have been, what the symptoms are, whether there is infection present in the gallbladder, what the X-ray studies show, and the other things, such as age and physical condition. It would be fine if some method could be used which would dissolve the stones without operation, but as yet no way of doing this has been found.

Many people carry gallstones for years without severe symptoms, but there is always danger of discomfort or their general health may be injured. Treatment other than operation usually includes attention to diet, with special emphasis toward avoiding those foods which produce symptoms of indigestion (particularly fats), and a moderate amount of exercise.

SEX TEACHING PLAN OPPOSED

LONDON (Reuter)—British schoolmasters, spending their Easter vacation in conference, decided Wednesday they dislike sex instruction in the classroom.

With only a few dissenters, the annual conference of the National Association of Schoolmasters registered its "conviction that education in sex is the natural and normal duty and the responsibility of the parents and should not be delegated to the teacher."

By ART STOTT

CROWDS DROVE or walked to the Oak Bay links the other evening to see Jack Smith's Newfoundland schooner high on the rocks where the gale had driven her. Some were drawn by curiosity. Others seemed attracted by a deeper emotion. All shared a common sympathy for the trim little craft and her owner. Voices were muted as questions passed from lip to lip. About the cold, rugged little foreland was the air of a sickroom where a child lies quiet but badly hurt.

It is that way with coast folk when a tall-masted vessel is storm-tossed onto a rocky shore. Even though no human life is at stake, something alive seems in pain as jagged pinnacles gnaw at a craft's hull. It is as if some bird, some high-soaring gull, has been injured and lies hurt and bewildered on the shore. You almost expect the vessel to quiver, you almost listen for a sigh.

THE DAMAGE that is done isn't counted in dollars. By a crowd looking at a small schooner on the rocks. A craft that can carry sail is a thing that dreams are made of. To its lean lines and rigging cling memories of an almost forgotten age of romance and adventure. Men who have built her and men who have sailed her have placed a heart and feelings in the craft. It is not something dead that moves them mechanically from place to place. Her sails come alive in the wind, her timbers are sinews that tighten under strains. She is a creature of spirit and muscle, of grace and slender strength.

It is no barren hulk that crowds see suffering in the sharp-toothed jaws of tidewater rocks.

OH, TO BE in college, now that April's here. And you can drop the poetic parody right there. This is no time to be bright and airy about Victoria College. The last lectures ended today and a time of fever and sweat will start on Saturday when the first examination papers will be distributed.

Sad, how quickly carefree youth withers this season in the building at Mount Tomin. Now is the time to worry about those misspent nights—innocent enough in themselves—but were not confined to study. These are the days when penitents long for a chance to live over again the school year. The hours they would put on algebra, the attention they would give English, the practice they would do on languages, the concentration they would devote to the sciences.

THEY WOULDN'T, though. They'd do just exactly what they have done since they started last September. These present garments of repentance are the kind old Omar threw into the fires of spring. The current crop of students will do the same when the last test has been turned in.

There'll be bad minutes—minutes that seem to stretch into hours—as glassy eyes stare at papers, and the papers stare right back, unanswering.

It's cheering to remember the sentence which introduced the college pass lists for about 20 years up to 1945. It said: "The faculty of the college informs us that the work of the students is well up to standard."

That meant most of those who sat for examinations passed. The wording has been deleted, but the percentages are still about the same. The majority will pass. A minor miracle, perhaps, that happens every spring.

NOW AND THEN a magazine illustrator works over an old theme. It shows a youngster, usually barefoot and wearing overalls and a straw hat, pulling fish out of a stream with a willow sapling and string line. Beside him sits an expert angler, with high-priced gear and no fish, looking sourly at the water. It's an old, old picture—but how true.

A fellow I know used to troll at Shawnigan. He used a handline, one rig of spoons and a worm. He wasn't much of a fisherman, but he caught the odd trout. Now he has a fly rod, a trolling rod, dry flies, wet flies, fancy leaders, flatfish, assorted metal lures, a landing net and improved technique. He still goes fishing, but all he gets is "xerise" and a chill. He's even tried his old handline tackle without any luck. That's what he gets for being a turn-coat to the simple system. The fish won't take him back.

He talks to the experts. They tell him they don't know what fish will take on a given day at a given time. Keep trying something different, they advise. He does, and he still gets fresh air and exercise.

Pro-Rec Season Ends With Show

Approximately 300 members from Pro-Rec centres in the Greater Victoria area will take part in mass gymnastic and dancing display April 21 at the badminton hall of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club. Display will mark close of season's activities. Among gymnasts taking part are, from left: Kneeling, Winnie Smith and Elsie Goulay; standing, Barbara Burgess, Doris Oliver, Betty Garrot and Zoe Richards.

CANCER CONTROL SERVICES OUTLINED AT CITY MEETING

Delegates to the four-day B.C. Health Institute at the Empress Hotel today heard what is being done to control cancer, which takes around 1,500 lives annually in this province.

Dr. George Elliott, assistant provincial health officer, described the new biopsy service started in February, cancer consultative service and additions to diagnostic X-ray equipment. The biopsy service, given free to pathologists, is a plan under which samples of tissue suspected to be cancerous are examined and a report made.

"It materially assists in better diagnosis and improved control of cancer," Dr. Elliott said.

NURSING HOME

Cancer consultative service is given at a building opened last December adjacent to the Cancer Institute in Vancouver. It is a nursing home for cancer, the speaker said.

From the home, expert advice on diagnosis and treatment of the disease is sent throughout the province.

Operating expenses are covered by national health grants. Additional X-ray equipment has been installed at Vernon Jubilee Hospital, Royal Inland Hospital, Kamloops, and at St. Paul's in Vancouver, Dr. Elliott stated.

OUTLINED HISTORY

Termining cancer as "war between the body and its rebel cells," he outlined the history and theories of the causes of the disease.

"There is no accurate description of the cancer problem in B.C. yet but it ranks second among causes of death," the health officer said.

He pointed to the need for cancer control by telling his audience that 25 years ago, 8.6 per cent of deaths in B.C. were due to cancer and the figure has increased to about 14.4 per cent at the present time.

Group To Continue Building Project In Hiroshima

A small group of Quakers from Seattle will leave for Hiroshima in Japan early this summer to engage in another building project similar to the one conducted last year.

The project will be assisted by local contributions. Donations should be sent to L. M. Vallance, 1831 Fern Street, clerk of Victoria Meeting, Society of Friends.

Idea behind the project is to foster a spirit of understanding and goodwill. With a group of Japanese workers, the Quakers constructed four substantial houses last year which were handed over to the Mayor of Hiroshima.

This year's project will centre mainly around the erection of a new wing for the Hiroshima Memorial Hospital, including two surgeries, a delivery room and three additional six-bed wards. This small hospital is part of Kiyoshi Tanimoto's Peace Centre, a project which has the approval of the city of Hiroshima and the Japanese Diet.

Army Adjutant Here On Inspection Soon

Maj.-Gen. W. H. S. Macklin, adjutant-general of the Canadian army, will be in Victoria next week on a tour of military establishments during which he will address active and reserve force officers.

Among the units he will inspect are the Royal Canadian School of Artillery at Esquimalt, Mary Hill and Albert Head, and Royal Roads College.

Third annual Greater Victoria schools band concert will be presented at Victoria High School auditorium April 27 and 28, at 8 in the evening, according to announcement today from J. F. K. English, senior municipal inspector of schools.

Gunner Acquitted On Charge Of Robbery, Violence

An Assize Court jury Wednesday acquitted Gunner Joseph Cloutier, Work Point Barracks, of a charge of robbery with violence, following a four-day trial before Mr. Justice A. D. Macfarlane.

Cloutier was charged with the theft of $8 from Quon Wong, a taxi driver, after allegedly attacking him in his car on Richmond Road on Feb. 1.

The jury deliberated an hour and a quarter before returning with the verdict of not guilty.

A. P. Dawe, Cloutier's lawyer, claimed his client was on a payday spree the day the alleged robbery took place.

Mr. Justice Macfarlane in his charge to the jury said three alternative verdicts could be brought in against the accused instead of the robbery with violence charge. He said the jury could find Cloutier guilty of theft on the person, theft, or common assault.

The judge noted that the case had been made "bizarre" by inference and suggestions, unsupported by evidence.

NO COFFEE TIME

Fruit Juice For Health Delegates

There's no such thing as "coffee time" for public health workers in convention at the Empress Hotel.

Setting a good example by practicing what they preach, delegates consume fruit juice during morning and afternoon breaks.

Tomato juice, donated by Bulman's Ltd., Vernon, and apple juice by B.C. Fruit Processors Ltd., Kelowna, is served in individual paper cups and plastic holders, the last mentioned equipment being supplied with the compliments of G. H. Wood and Co. Ltd., Victoria.

Cordova Pro-Rec Closes Season In Display Of Work

Cordova Bay Pro-Rec Centre ended a successful season with a closing display in St. David's by-the-Sea Church Hall.

A large turnout of parents and friends applauded each number. Boys' and girls' classes, which have been instructed by Jack Moffatt and Del Leith, gave a display of tumbling, vaulting, pyramid building and square dances.

An added attraction which brought rounds of applause was a display by the Victoria Acrobatic Club which recently won the northwest championship at Vancouver. Ed Ketter, Jack Moffatt, Bob Jackson, John Crossley, Bill O'Brien, Ron Kiley and Jack O'Neil took part.

Gordy McKay and Bruce Baird added a little comedy by putting on a clown act.

Three junior leaders with their instructor George Smith from the City Centre gave an acrobatic display that was well received. They were Joan Frees, Lucille Wells and Sylvia Jenner. Joan Speck who took the part of the fairy in the "Fairy Circle" presented Del Leith and Mrs. Doug Fletcher, who acted as accompanist, boxes of chocolates as a token of appreciation from the centre.

Doug Fletcher acted as master of ceremonies.

Housing Needs Of Senior Citizens

The serious need for finding better housing accommodation for some old-age pensioners and increasing the fund from which help could be given in cases of emergency were stressed at the monthly meeting of the Senior Citizens' Campaign Council in the committee room of the City Hall.

Harold Thayer presided. Two $5 donations were acknowledged. The V.O.N. was thanked for sheets for bedridden patients.

Owing to the committee room being too small for meetings, it was decided to change from the second Tuesday to the fourth Tuesday of the month and meetings will be held in the council chamber.

Next meeting will be May 23. Films were shown by H. Ker assisted by E. Duncan.

HUNTED IN VAIN FOR PICNIC SPOT ON JORDAN RIVER ROAD

Lack of picnic grounds between Victoria and Jordan River is noted by D. L. MacMurchie, assistant to the provincial parks director.

In a paper presented to the Victoria Natural History Society, he tells of driving out the Jordan River road with his family on an outing.

Mr. MacMurchie says he found evidence of business enterprise and "no trespassing" signs, but "not one stretch of foreshore where the children could hunt crabs and sea-stars, or skip stones across the water."

These frustrated trips, Mr. MacMurchie feared, would make young people decide there was more fun hanging around street corners and listening to "bop" on the local juke box.

Hibberson Fights Way Into Golf Semifinals

Eric Hibberson of Uplands Golf Club, lone Victorian in the championship flight, will meet Paul Florito of Seattle, in one half of the semifinal round of the 20th annual Empress Golf Tournament at Colwood Friday.

The match promises to be one of the best of the week-long tournament, as Hibberson plays to a four handicap and Florito to a six.

The local shotmaker gained the semifinal round under sunny skies today by rallying on the last eight holes to defeat Jim Squire, former Victorian now living in Seattle, 2 and 1.

EASIER TIME

Florito had an easier time in winning his quarter final match today from A. D. Davis, Calgary, 5 and 4.

In the other semifinal match Friday, Capt. Harley Williams, Seattle, will meet Dr. L. A. Schueler, Port Angeles. The U.S. Air Force officer trounced W. H. Sears, Toronto, 6 and 5. Schueler advanced by defeating Bud Jagger, Portland, 3 and 1. The Hibberson-Squire match saw first one then the other take the lead until the eighth hole when Squire went out in front to stay until the 14th.

Hibberson won the first with a birdie 3, but lost the second to Squire's identical birdie 3. The third was halved in 4; Hibberson won the fourth with a par 3; Squire the fifth with a par 5, and the sixth with a par 4.

A birdie 2 on the seventh enabled Hibberson to square the match again but Squire came back with a birdie 3 on the eighth to go one up.

The ninth was halved in 4's. Squire went two up on the 10th when Hibberson put his second out of bounds and picked up.

Hibberson won the 11th with a par 3; the 12th and 13th were halved in 4's and Hibberson squared the match on the 14th with an eagle 3. The local player's ball was resting on the lip of the cup, lying 3, and Squire, partially stymied, knocked it into the hole when putting for a birdie 4.

Both men were in a trap off the 15th tee, Hibberson winning the hole with a bogey 4, to take the lead for the first time since the fourth hole.

The 16th was halved in par 4's, and Hibberson won the match on the 17th with a par 4 to Squire's bogey 5.

Except for the 10th hole, where he picked up, the Victorian was one under par for the round.

Since the women's quarter-finals did not tee off till late in the morning at the same course, no results were available at press time.

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich. (AP)—Taxes took a chunk of $35,000, 847 out of the estate of $128,039.50 left by Edsel B. Ford, only son of the founder of the Ford Motor Co.

This was disclosed in an accounting Wednesday before Probate Judge Joseph B. Trombley.

Drag Out Mops And Dusters We're Going To Spring Clean

By PENNY SAVER

"Ring the bells in the steeple, spring is here, you lucky people!" "For heaven's sake, Mabel, didn't you know you were the poet type. What's the occasion?"

"Well, Pen, old hen, I've just got the urge to spring-clean and come hail or high water it's now or never!"

This was the mood in which I found my friend when I phoned her this morning. As the conversation progressed I discovered the root of her enthusiasm stemmed from a visit she had recently made to downtown stores in search of aids to spring cleaning. (That's very poor French I know, but I was a commercial student!)

First article she had to tell me about was a mop made with ball bearing connection between the stick and mop. She tells me you can use the mop in every possible corner of the house because of its adaptability to search down narrow passages or spread out wide to hunt out every last speck of dirt. She also seemed pretty excited about the zippered cover on the dust collector. All you do is unzip, take the mop off the frame and throw it into the washing machine. For $3.98, in colors of red and blue, it sounded like a pretty good buy to me. Other mops, in a bright array of colors, sell for 79 cents and up.

A curtain stretcher may resemble a medieval torturing device but to Mabel they're all she wants for her curtains. The set she bought has adjustable bars and complete directions for its use. Curtains and your imagination are not the only things you

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

What does a mother expect of a nine-month-old baby? Certainly not that this child shall be socially independent and thus able to entertain himself constantly. Any mother who feels this way has a warped idea of what to expect of a young baby and will be driven to behavior which should shame her.

Mrs. J. M. writes, "You never say anything about babies that whine. I would like information on that matter. My nine-months old baby has a pleasant disposition and is always keeping herself well occupied with play; but even while she is playing she whines. It is slowly getting on my nerves and it is all I can do to control myself from punishing her."

Babies need the association of other persons and should be talked to and played with when they become restless and fretful. They need a change of position from stomach to back, if they can't turn themselves readily (this child could), and they need to be transferred from davenport to playpen, to carriage to high chair to crib to floor, as the occasion may be, just to give them an opportunity to enjoy a change of environment, different pressures on their bodies, and to make them feel happy and contented again.

To put this child in one place, even though she be dry and comfortable and well supplied with toys, does not fulfill your whole obligation to her. You are fortunate that she has a pleasant disposition but you are taking advantage of it.

When the child whines it is because she is not satisfied at the moment. She wants a change. She wants companionship and you should give it to her, instead of considering punishment to make her stop bothering you.

The whiny child, of any age, is the child who never feels quite secure in the affection of her family and is forever demanding more and more attention, hoping to prove to herself (or himself) that she is wrong. Your baby is starting early in life to apprise you that you aren't giving her enough affectionate notice. That is, unless what you describe as a whine is an involuntary noise from some physical cause. Let the doctor determine that.

Our leaflet No. 71, "Early Discipline," may be had by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Sports Togs Slant Towards Days On The Green

"Spring may be a little late this year," according to the words of a popular song, but just the same, as soon as the first warm days arrive, thoughts naturally wing away out-of-doors—a hiking party, week-end fishing trips, and before you know it, picnics at the lakeside.

But this week in particular the spotlight on outdoor activities centres on golfing, with many of our neighbors to the south and from the mainland here for the 20th annual Empress Hotel tournament.

Golfing—for many women—means warm, lightweight sweaters, sturdy but smart skirts, easy-to-move-in jackets, and chic little peaked brim caps.

The latter are both a decorative and practical complement to any golfing ensemble, their water resistant materials giving protection from sun and rain.

Local stores are featuring the pert headgear in crisp white, natural, gold and red tones. They are priced around $2.

Just the thing to snuggle into during sudden April showers are water resistant, featherweight jackets, designed with action backs, trimly tailored collars, and zipper closing to the waistline. The jackets, trimly belted, come in either fingertip or waist length, and among colors are gold, green and navy.

Imports from Scotland and England are tops in the sweater line. In all shades there are Shetlands, lamb's wool, cashmere's from India, and fine botany wool from Scotland.

Botany wools are shown in short-sleeved shirt sweaters; pointed collars complete the two-button necklines. Colors include japonica, sage green, navy, pale blue and gold.

For those who prefer blouses, there are tailored viyella and gabardine shirts in solids, checks and ever popular tartans.

When it comes to the perfect skirt for the occasion, every one will have their own preference, but the most popular color with women golfers seems to be grey, according to most saleswomen.

Gabardines, flannels and Bedford cords, are among the favorites when it comes to materials, and as far as style is concerned, for golfing, skirts are extremely simple.

To complete the costume there are all-wool socks, both plain and Argyle, priced around $2.75; beautifully cut pigskin gloves, at $7.50; and brilliantly hued scarfs in just about every price bracket.

For chilly days when Mr. Sun is not co-operating there are smartly tailored, navy blue double-breasted jackets with pearl button trim, to give added warmth. Or many women prefer bright, boxy shortie coats, buttoned to the neck and worn with or without belts. The latter are popular in mohair and wool and camel hair and wool.

Perhaps forcing her to depend on herself would be the making of her. It often is, and I have seen more than one spoiled girl and boy regenerated by going to live among strangers who literally made them behave themselves and accord others their rights.

Evidently your fiancée is jealous of your sister and, like lots of other selfish men, he is perfectly willing to sacrifice you to himself, but he objects to your being sacrificed to anyone else. If he really considered you at all, he would understand your sense of responsibility to your sister, and that no matter how badly she treats you, you feel that you cannot turn her out to shift for herself in a world that is full of dangers for young girls.

And he would know that in a little while she will marry or go off herself, and that the problem will automatically end.

ANSWER: It seems to me that your selfish sister is not worth the sacrifice of all your love and happiness. Evidently she thinks of nothing but her own pleasure and convenience, and she takes that at your expense. You are the worthwhile member of the family and the one who deserves happiness.

PARIS, NEW YORK STYLES DUBBED 'SKELETON LOOK'

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—If Paris and New York style creators are happy with what they've turned out this spring they may be surprised to hear that some Hollywood fashion experts have dubbed it the "skeleton look."

Orry Kelly and Yvonne Wood said that women who try to slim themselves for the new Fath and Dior creations are going to undermine their health.

Said Kelly, "The only thing they agree on is that it's easier to get artistic effects by draping material on a lath-like figure. They'll be killing off our screen actresses soon."

"What started out to be the 'lath' is becoming the 'skeleton' look."

Carnation Protects You

When you buy Carnation evaporated milk, you know, before ever you open the can, that you are getting good milk — smooth, uniform, rich, creamy flavored. That is true today as it was 50 years ago — true in British Columbia as it is all over the world.

Good Milk Improved

Carnation starts with good milk from strictly supervised farms. Only top quality milk is accepted by Carnation plants. And processing is strictly controlled, exact to a degree of temperature, to a second of time. All the knowledge of 50 years of producing the world's largest-selling brand goes into every can of Carnation.

A CANADIAN PRODUCT

Fills Every Milk and Cream Need When you need milk, use half Carnation, half water. When you need cream, use Carnation undiluted. You'll be pleased in both cases. Your grocer has Carnation.

Live Dowager Is Embarrassing To Nobility Expert

LONDON (Reuter)—Debrett's, the record by which Britain keeps tabs on the family trees of its nobility, has admitted with horror that it has made a mistake—the first in its 147-year history. The impeccable publication, which lists the "peerage, baronetage and knightage" of the United Kingdom, has recorded the death of a dowager baroness who was very much alive. Discovery of this error came with the application Wednesday by the dowager Lady Auckland, a 79-year-old widow, before a rent tribunal sitting in Plymouth. C. F. J. Hankinson, scholarly editor of Debrett's, appeared shocked and worried when he was told the dowager is alive. "Debrett's has made a mistake—the first mistake like this in my experience," he said.

NEW DELHI (CP)—The All-Indian Women's Hockey Association has agreed to send a team of Indian women to England for a series of matches. The game is field hockey, not ice hockey.

Fully-Armed Planes For U.S. Patrols Requested

Senator Wants Pilots Near Soviet Border Given Orders To Shoot Back If Fired On

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.) proposed today that U.S. planes patrolling near Russia's borders be "armed to the teeth" and ordered to shoot back if fired upon.

In a speech prepared for Senate delivery, Bridges asserted that the Soviet air force had "ambushed and shot down in cold blood" a slow and unarmed American patrol plane which drifted into Russian-occupied Latvia last week.

Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky of Russia contended in a formal protest Tuesday that an American bomber of the B-29 type fired on Russian fighters, one of which returned the fire, and then turned out to sea.

The plane in question is believed to be an unarmed U.S. navy Privateer, missing in the Baltic Sea area with 10 men aboard.

Bridges called the incident "a shocking thing."

WOMAN GOES TO JAIL 1 DAY FOR HER DOG

OTTAWA (CP)—It cost a sentence of a day in jail, but Mrs. Elsie Beswick has struck a firm blow for canine freedom.

With a ringing declaration against "police-persecution" of dogs, she took the rap Wednesday for her five-year-old cocker spaniel Smokey, picked up for "running at large."

Refusing to pay a $3 fine, Mrs. Beswick took the alternative jail term.

Smokey, she said, just minded his own business by sitting on the front lawn or front verandah.

Hundreds Attend Service In Memory Of Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N.Y. (AP)—Hundreds of friends gathered Wednesday in front of the white marble monument that marks the grave of the 31st President of the United States—Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Among those present at services commemorating the fifth anniversary of Roosevelt's death were the widow, a son, his former law partner, and one of the three vice-presidents who were elected to office with him when he was chosen President four times.

Mrs. Roosevelt, on the arm of her son, Elliott, placed a spray of daffodils and iris at her husband's grave.

Basil O'Connor, now head of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and formerly Roosevelt's law partner, brought a bouquet of white lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wallace were among the large crowd gathered in the rose garden of the estate, the spot Roosevelt chose for his grave site.

Henry Morgenthau Jr., Secretary of the Treasury under Roosevelt; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Jacob Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America (C.I.O.), were among the others present.

CENSUS TAKER HARD TO FIND

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Nell R. Short, a census taker, called every night for almost a week at a certain house in Dallas.

Finally she found the occupant at home—Mrs. Hazel E. Hansen, another census taker.

Nanda Devi, a 25,645-foot-high Himalayan peak, is the highest summit ever climbed by man.

Skeletons Of Babies Found In Fireplace

BALTIMORE (AP)—The skeletons of three babies apparently dead for more than 25 years were discovered in the boarded-up fireplace of a home here, it was reported today.

Mrs. Marie Plage dropped her ring through a crack in the mantel. To get to it, she ripped up a piece of loose tin and uncovered a bundle of cloth.

She unwrapped the cloth and saw the skeleton of a small baby. She jumped back, screaming. Her uncle, Fred Scheidegger, summoned the police. Officers probed into the opening and removed two other small skeletons.

One of them was wrapped in a paper dated Sept. 18, 1921, and the other in a paper dated Jan. 27, 1923.

Dr. William Kammer, who identified the remains as human bones, ordered them taken to the morgue, where a thorough examination will be conducted.

Negro Charged In Ottawa Stabbing

OTTAWA (CP)—Simon Normand, a 39-year-old negro, today was charged with the murder of Patrick Donaldson, 23, of Saint John, N.B., in an early-morning stabbing incident.

Normand was remanded for one week without plea.

Police found Donaldson lying on the floor in a pool of blood, surrounded by five men, one of which they said was Normand.

All five were taken into custody as material witnesses.

Police said both the accused and the victim had been drinking earlier. It was reported the stabbing followed an argument over the price of a bottle of wine.

Three Workers Injured In Oil Well Flash Fire

Test Oil Ignites, Seriously Burning One Of Crew Members At Drilling Hole

CALMAR, Alta. (CP)—A drilling fire which seriously injured three oil workers today at the British-American Main well No. 3 near here was put one hour after it started.

An explosion occurred at noon while a drillstem test was being taken. The injured men were members of a crew working over the drill hole.

Suddenly a ball of flame came spurting out of the hole, searing the three workers about the face and hands. Others dragged the injured about 200 yards to an automobile and rushed them 26 miles to an Edmonton hospital.

Burned were Robert Hawes, 23, Robert Barker, 20, and Frank Anderson, all of Edmonton. All suffered severe burns and one man is reported to be in critical condition.

"A head of oil was blowing off end, for some unknown reason the test oil ignited and I heard a loud bang," said Ralph Atkinson, British-American Oil Co. engineer who was directing the testing.

"Within a second the whole drilling rig was enveloped in black smoke and flame," Mr. Atkinson was driver of the car which took the three injured to hospital.

The men were employed by Dowell Incorporated and Falcon Seaboard Drilling Co.

Senator Charges 'Base Slander' By Republicans

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Connally (D-Texas) today accused Republican senators of "base slander" in blaming the collapse of Nationalist China on the State Department.

Connally, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, shouted to the Senate that the administration had done everything except send troops to China in an effort to prevent the fall of Chiang Kai-shek's government.

"I don't believe anyone here would favor sending troops from Mississippi, from Pennsylvania and Oregon to fight and die in China," he said. "Yet that's all we failed to do and still they say the State Department is responsible for the collapse of the Chiang Kai-shek government."

NO SIMPLE WHIRLPOOL TRIP

Two Brothers Plan Barrel Ride Over Raging Niagara Cataract

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (BUP)—The Hill brothers of Niagara River fame announced today they are planning to again defy the rushing torrent of water.

This time, however, they said, the feat would be no "simple" riding the whirlpool rapids through the lower gorge to Queenston, Ont. Instead, they planned to go over the mighty Horseshoe Falls in barrels.

It would be a dual effort. The elder brother, William (Red) Hill Jr., said he would tackle the larger cataract off the Canadian shore in an aluminum barrel containing a steel frame lined with cork and a suspended hammock.

The daring feat has been accomplished before, around the turn of the century, but Red Jr. will add a few wrinkles. He intends to be dropped into the deep centre current from a helicopter, and once "safely" at the bottom of the cataract to leave his barrel and swim to the Canadian shore. He didn't elaborate how he hoped to achieve this

No Arrests Made As Policemen Stand By

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP)—An angry mob, said to have ranged in size at various times from 200 to 2,000, Wednesday night smashed the meeting place of a Christian Brethren group.

Twenty-seven persons huddled in fear in an upstairs flat while the mob, made up of men, women and children, hurled stones, empty bottles, chunks of ice and even eggs.

The plate glass windows of the building, which also houses a store, were smashed. After an hour-long demonstration, a part of the crowd entered the store, used as a chapel, and wrecked furniture, including the pulpit.

Eyewitnesses and police sources told newspapermen today that the disturbances began when a member of the crowd outside the building entered the meeting place and began to ridicule the sect.

He was promptly thrown out and that is believed to have touched off the demonstration.

AT PEAK

Police Chief Longval said there were as many as 2,000 in the crowd at one time.

An evangelistic sect, the Christian Brethren are said to have 20 small congregations scattered throughout Quebec province. They have no ordained ministers but are led by "evangelists"—laymen who are called to the work. They are paid no salary.

Benoit Mongrain, a wheelchair paralytic who owns the building, said today that about 20 Brethren were in the store chapel when the stoning began. Several were women.

Mongrain said he is not a member of the sect. He allowed the group to take shelter in his home above the store. There, he said, the Brethren group and Mongrain, his wife and five children were held virtual prisoners for about two hours during the demonstration.

POLICE ESCORT

A detachment of 10 Shawinigan Falls police escorted the Brethren from the Mongrain flat.

The police are said to have made no arrests although they were reported to have been on the scene early in the outbreak. (Other dispatches quoted Chief Longval as saying today there was little prospect of arresting any of the mob that attacked the little meeting place.)

Paul Boeda, leader of the Shawinigan group, placed a telephone call during the demonstration to Dr. Arthur C. Hill of Sherbrooke, chairman of the executive committee of the Christian Brethren Church of Quebec.

Boeda could not be reached today and Dr. Hill left for Shawinigan Falls by way of Montreal. Shawinigan Falls is about 18 miles north of Three Rivers, about 100 miles east of Montreal.

Pilgrims Crush Thirty To Death

NEW DELHI, India (UP)—Thirty persons, including seven women, were crushed to death today when thousands of pilgrims stampeded through the streets of Hardwar seeking immortality from the waters of a sacred pool.

Kept secret until it was first presented at the Provincial Public Health Institute convention at the Empress Hotel this afternoon, the award, consisting of a pin and scroll, will be given for achievement beyond the normal call of duty.

Acting Premier Gordon Wismer presented the token to Miss Amy Wilson, public health nurse at Whitehorse for the Indian Affairs Division of the federal Department of Health, and Miss Aileen Bond, provincial public health nurse for the Peace River district.

The two nurses prevented spread of a diphtheria epidemic in the Peace River district last December and January by vaccinating more than 1,000 Indians under extremely difficult conditions in 60 below weather.
